Ike's Progress "Excellent"

Rival IRBMs Ordered Into Production

Investigating Senators Hail "Good News"

Range Of Jupiter And Thor Missiles Up To 1,500 Miles

WASHINGTON, Nov. 27 (AP)—The Defense Department today ordered both the Thor and Jupiter, rival ballistic missiles with ranges up to 1,500 miles, into production for operational purposes.

Secretary of Defense McElroy told the Senate Preparedness subcommittee the new weapons would be ready for firing from U.S. bases in Great Britain by the end of 1958.

"Good news," said Sen. Johnson (D-Tex), chairman of the subcommittee, which is investigating the U.S. missile program.

It was apparently the first good news the senators had received today.

They spent the morning being secretly briefed by officials of the Central Intelligence Agency on the nation's position in the missile race with Russia. And they reported they had been given a "dismal," "drab," "sad and shocking" picture.

"Great Challenge"

"America is faced with a great challenge," Johnson, the Senate's Democratic leader, said after this long-closed-door session. "I have no doubt either as to its willingness or ability to meet it."

Sen. Flanders (R-Vt) told reporters he was disturbed by the revelations of the CIA men. "But we suspected it," he added.

Then came McElroy with his announcement that the Defense Department had decided "late last night" to put Thor and Jupiter on the production line.

Until recently the administration was expected to make a choice between the Army's Jupiter and the Air Force's rival Thor and concentrate on one type.

McElroy, testifying at a public session of the inquiry group, said that in the last few days his department has been making "an intensive reassessment" of its position on the rival IRBMs—intermediate-range ballistic missiles.

Recent Tests Successful

"We have been greatly encouraged by the success that has been achieved in the recent tests of both of these missiles," the defense chief said.

"It is now clear that, while neither of the missiles can be regarded as having completed its development phase, they are both at a point at which we believe we can on the basis of judgment make a sound decision to program additional production for operational purposes.

"Accordingly, we are today authorizing the placing into production of both the Jupiter and the Thor missiles.

"By making use of the production capacity now available for both . . . an operational capability can be achieved by the end of 1958 in the United Kingdom, and as soon as necessary arrangements can be effected at other appropriate locations."

Poland's Top Reds Get Wires Crossed

WARSAW, Nov. 27 (AP)— Wires got crossed some place among Poland's top Reds.

The weekly newspaper Zycie Gospodarcze replied today to an attack brought against it by Andrzej Werblan, Central Committee member and propaganda chief. He had accused the paper of revisionism — one of the blackest crimes in the Communist book.

But Werblan apparently overlooked the fact that the newspaper passages he termed revisionist were direct quotes from Prof. Adam Schaff, another Central Committee member and the Polish Communist party's chief theoretician.

USAF Jets Set Three Records

Family To Join Ailing President In Giving Thanks

WASHINGTON, Nov. 27 (AP)—Ailing President Eisenhower will have his family with him for Thanksgiving Day at the White House tomorrow—including the four grandchildren.

On the dinner menu—most likely, the White House says—will be the traditional turkey.

The President's son, Maj. John Eisenhower, his wife, Barbara, and their four children will come from their home in nearby Alexandria, Va., for the holiday, the White House announced.

No other relatives are expected.

While the President was thus planning to observe the holiday, his pastor, the Rev. Edward L. R. Elson, of National Presbyterian church, made a plea that the nation join in Thanksgiving Day prayers for the chief executive's speedy recovery.

He suggested that churches all over the country say prayers for the President between 11 a.m. and noon.

Voodoos Shatter Cross-Country, Roundtrip Marks

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 27 (AP) — The Air Force today wrested three transcontinental jet plane records from the Navy—west to east, east to west and round trip.

One of the group of sleek Voodoo jets clipped more than two hours off the east-to-west and round-trip records.

This craft, the first to leave here and the first to return, flew nonstop to New York and back in an unofficial time of 7 hours, 12 minutes, 18 seconds. The old record was 9 hours, 31.35 minutes.

The plane was piloted by Capt. Ray W. Schrecengost Jr., 31, Kittanning, Pa.

NEW YORK, Nov. 27 (AP) — A sleek Air Force Voodoo jet set a west-to-east record today of 3 hours, 5 minutes, 39.2 seconds.

Piloted by Lt. Gustav B. Klatt, 29, San Marcos, Tex., the jet, which took off from Los Angeles, flashed over Floyd Bennett Field at 2:02:17.2 p.m. EST faster than the speed of sound.

The record was 3 hours, 22 minutes set by a Navy F8U Crusader last July.

Klatt was preceded in his pass over Floyd Bennett by three other Voodoo jets, each of which lowered the former record.

First to arrive was Capt. Ray W. Schrecengost Jr., 31, Kittanning, Pa., whose time was 3:13:31.4.

He was followed by Capt. Robert J. Kilpatrick, 32, of Bristol, Conn., whose time was 3:10:2.

The third plane, piloted by Capt. Robert M. Sweet, 30, Barronett, Wis., recorded a time of 3:7:57.9.

Schrecengost and Sweet, after flashing over the field, immediately reversed direction and set out to shatter the speed records for a New York to Los Angeles flight, and for the round trip.

Klatt and Kilpatrick put down at McGuire Air Force Base in New Jersey.

The Navy record is 5:14:54 for the New York-Los Angeles run, and 9:31:35 for the round trip.

Severe Attacks On U.S. Toned Down By Egypt

CAIRO, Egypt, Nov. 27 (AP) — Egypt's anti-American campaign has toned down sharply in the last few days on the heels of the announcement of a Soviet-Egyptian economic assistance agreement.

Newspaper editorials, which had blasted the United States and its foreign policy, now focus on probable benefits from the agreement with the Soviet Union or from federation with Syria.

Some biting anti-American cartoons still appear.

The slowdown in attacks may be an effort on Egypt's part to demonstrate she is sticking to her policy of nonalignment.

Severe attacks on the United States, coupled with the Soviet-Egyptian agreement, would give the appearance of an Egyptian swing toward Moscow, and Egypt seeks to avoid a pro-Soviet label.

When the initial announcement of the agreement with Russia was made, one newspaper editorial said the West would now brand Egypt as having fallen into the Soviet orbit, as was the case in Syria's aid agreement with Russia.

But there was no strong reaction from the United States on the agreement. Some Egyptians are wondering why.

When a group of American congressmen visited Cairo last weekend on a Middle East swing, Rep. Wayne L. Hays (D-Ohio) said differences between Egypt and the United States were surmountable. He said after meeting with President Nasser that both Egypt and the United States desired to improve their relations.

Egyptian Foreign Minister Mahmoud Fawzy's return to the United States this week is considered in some circles to be particularly significant toward resumption of friendly relations.

Four NATO Allies Oppose Parley Delay

Council Will Decide Today If Conference To Be Held Dec. 16

PARIS, Nov. 27 (AP)—Four big NATO powers insisted today on going ahead with the Western alliance's summit meeting next month even if President Eisenhower can't attend.

The decision on whether to postpone will be made by the permanent NATO Council which meets tomorrow.

Britain, France, West Germany and Italy voiced a desire to go ahead, with Vice President Nixon sitting in for the ailing President.

The U.S. State Department had not closed the door on the possibility Eisenhower might still attend—although doctors said he will need several weeks rest from the attack he suffered Monday.

The NATO meeting is scheduled to start Dec. 16.

NATO Members Polled

The NATO secretariat, headed by Belgium's Paul-Henri Spaak, polled NATO members today on whether they wanted to postpone it. He declined to discuss the outcome.

But from Norway in the north, to Turkey in the eastern Mediterranean the feeling was that plans must go on for greater integration in NATO and a step-up in its defensive potential in the face of Soviet advances in missile and earth satellite fields.

Only Greece seemed hesitant. In Athens, a source close to the government said Greece feels a preliminary conference at the ministerial level would be better at this time. However, the source said Greek Prime Minister Karamanlis will go if other premiers do.

Denmark also has not made up its mind, sources in Copenhagen said.

No Alternative Seen

All through the day reports reached Paris that NATO members favored going on. The general feeling seemed to be that the future of the West was bound up in the session and it must take place despite the absence of the man regarded as its leading architect.

The meeting is expected to approve U.S.-sponsored plans for some kind of joint scientific program to surpass the Soviet Union in rocket and space development.

It is also expected to get under way a program for greater integration of armed forces and political consultation.

Stocks Recoup Tuesday Loss

NEW YORK, Nov. 27 (AP)—In a rousing rally stocks bounded up $1 to $7 a share today to recoup all their losses of the previous session.

The rally started at the opening and continued through to the close. It added an estimated $4,800,000,000 to the quoted value of all shares listed on the New York Stock Exchange.

Oils and aircrafts paced the upturn but all sections joined the parade. Improvement in President Eisenhower's physical condition helped spur demand, brokers said.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks, upon which the value gain in all stocks is estimated, was ahead $3.90 at $158.50. It fell $3.60 yesterday. The Dow Jones industrial index closed at 446.03, up 10.69. It declined 9.04 yesterday.

Oils led the advance in the morning and Gulf Oil ended up $7, Amerada $4.87, Texas Co. $4.12 and Getty Oil $3.

Following news that Defense Secretary McElroy was putting the Thor and Jupiter missiles into production, aircrafts boomed.

Tired Of Going Without Shoes, Pleads Guilty

DES MOINES, Nov. 27 (AP)—Robert A. Osburne pleaded guilty to a charge of carrying concealed weapons because he said, he was tired of padding around in his stocking feet.

Osburne told Municipal Judge Howard Brooks yesterday he had spent 14 days in jail awaiting hearing without any footgear because police took his boots away from him as evidence.

Detective James McCarthy explained a leather knife holster was sewed on the inside of Osburne's boot. Officers said the boots—minus holster and knife—would be returned to him after he is sentenced.

"They're My Boys"

Gen. O. P. Weyland, commander of the Tactical Air Command, points to his record-breaking pilots after he awarded medals to Capt. Robert J. Kilpatrick, Bristol, Conn., (left), and First Lt. Gustav B. Klatt, San Marcos, Tex., yesterday at McGuire Air Force Base, N. J. Both flew Air Force Voodoo jets across the continent from California for new marks. Kilpatrick, awarded the Air Medal, flew the nonstop crossing in 3 hours, 10 minutes and 2 seconds, while Klatt, who won the Distinguished Flying Cross, chopped the mark down to 3 hours, 5 minutes and 39.2 seconds. The previous mark, held by the Navy, was 3 hours, 22 minutes. (AP Photofax)

U.N. 'Interference' In Algeria Problem Opposed By France

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y., Nov. 27 (AP)—France declared today that "thoughtless interference" by the United Nations in Algeria might prolong the three-year-old nationalist rebellion rather than end it.

Foreign Minister Christian Pineau told the 82-nation U.N. political Committee the nationalists already have lost the war, and can only make a comeback with the aid of the United Nations.

He rejected a Tunisian-Moroccan offer to help bring the French around a conference table with the nationalists.

He declared that the rebels have lost not only on the military front, but on the "psychological and political fronts" as well.

He said that for the United Nations to take any kind of action on Algeria would only revive rebel hopes for a comeback, and that it is the duty of the U.N. to permit France to continue its efforts at a "peaceful, democratic and just" solution in Algeria.

Tunisia and Morocco have offered their good offices in seeking negotiations between the French and Algerian nationalists as represented by the National Liberation Front. A resolution calling for such talks may be put before the U.N.

But Pineau said the offer contained political preconditions which would make the negotiations pointless.

He said the offer dropped the nationalist demand for Algerian independence as a condition for opening talks, but sbustituted instead a demand for sovereignty. Pineau said to the French both independence and sovereignty have the same legal meaning.

He objected to the naming of a single nationalist group as spokesman for all Algerian Arabs.

Pineau charged also that the National Liberation Front and a rival group, the Algerian National Movement, are engaged in a "cruel competition for monopoly" over all Algerian nationalist activities.

Pineau charged that "international communism" was involved in the Algerian revolt, with the Reds taking charge of terrorism in the cities and infiltrating nationalist rebel bands.

He said he did not want to identify Algerian nationalism with international communism, but only to call attention to "the grave danger for the future, inherent in Communist participation in the Algerian subversion.

"Even were the rebellion to be sincerely opposed to the setting up of a Communist regime in Algeria, it may, one day, even unwillingly turn out to be the Trojan horse of communism in North Africa."

He opposed Asian-Arab demands for self-determination in Algeria, saying this would only result in the dividing of the North African territory into two states.

Sen. And Mrs. Kennedy Parents Of Daughter

NEW YORK, Nov. 27 (AP)—A baby girl was born to Sen. and Mrs. John Kennedy at New York Hospital today. It is their first child.

A hospital spokesman said both mother and 7-pound 2-ounce daughter are doing well. Sen. Kennedy was on hand to greet his new daughter.

Naval Exercises Set

KARACHI, Pakistan, Nov. 27 (AP)—Twenty-four warships of Iran, Turkey, Britain, the United States and Pakistan sailed out of Karachi today for a three-day exercise in the Arabian Sea, starting Nov. 30.

Squillante Gets Year In Prison

NEW YORK, Nov. 27 (AP) — Garbage kingpin Vincent J. Squillante, target of U.S. Senate probers and metropolitan area officials for alleged strongarm tactics in the refuse disposal industry, today was sentenced to a year in prison for violation of probation in an income tax case.

As Squillante stood for sentencing, U.S. Dist Judge Irving R. Kaufman denounced him in stinging terms as a man who used force and intimidation to make himself "the overlord of the carting industry."

The judge said that the government, in presenting its case against the 40-year-old defendant, had "led us step by step through a sordid account of deceit and intimidation."

"The list of the probationer's consorts during his probation period reads like a who's who of the underworld," the judge said.

Nixon Avoids Any Substitute President Role

WASHINGTON, Nov. 27 (AP) — Vice President Nixon worked as an administration "team" member at the White House again today. But he carefully avoided any word or act even remotely suggesting that he was stepping into the role of substitute president.

However, with the chief executive under orders to rest while recuperating from his illness, it seemed increasingly probable that Nixon would be tapped to shoulder some of the more strenuous jobs on Eisenhower's schedule.

Two of these jobs involve United States representation at the Dec. 16 summit conference of North Atlantic Treaty nations in Paris, and next week's legislative briefing of congressional leaders.

In Paris today, a spokesman for the U.S. delegation to NATO said the United States has decided officially to send Nixon to the summit conference. He said this decision will be communicated to other NATO governments tomorrow.

At the White House, presidential press secretary James C. Hagerty stated only that President Eisenhower will decide who is to represent the United States.

Hagerty said this government has asked the other 14 NATO nations if they want to go ahead with the conference despite the President's inability to be present. When their decision is received, Hagerty added, "then it will be the decision of the President who will attend."

It would not be the first time that Nixon has represented the United States abroad. As Eisenhower's emissary, Nixon has traveled through the Far East, Africa, Europe and Central America since 1953.

Last Regular U.S. Troops Flown Out Of Little Rock

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Nov. 27 (AP) —Six big troop carrier planes flew out of Little Rock today carrying the last of the 101st Airborne Division paratroopers who have been protecting nine Negro students here for 64 days.

Aboard the C123 transports returning to Ft. Campbell, Ky., were the remaining 225 of the 1,000 soldiers sent here by President Eisenhower in September to enforce court-ordered integration at Central High School.

Their particular mission had been accomplished.

Commanding world attention, the battle-dressed soldiers had ringed the big high school and dispersed a mob screaming protests against the forced entry of nine Negro students.

For several weeks the paratroopers escorted the six girls and three boys to and from school, led them inside the building and guarded the corridors and classrooms where the Negroes went.

During the 64-day period which Gov. Orval Faubus calls "federal occupation," the Army felt the tension steadily decline to a point at which it was decided their presence was no longer necessary.

A token force made up of federalized National Guardsmen, formerly Arkansas National Guardsmen, now patrols the school area.

For several weeks the Negro students have not needed a military escort to and from school as in the early days of the crisis.

Federalized guardsmen have graduallyreplaced the paratroopers at the school.

All nine of the Negroes were in class today when the air convoy left.

First Sputnik's Rocket May Become Man-Made Meteorite This Weekend

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Nov. 27 (AP)—When the final stage rocket that launched history's first man-made satellite plunges to a flaming death, possibly this weekend, it will be a man-made meteorite.

Meteorites have been chronicled throughout history. Their awesome flash across the sky has routed armies. They are mentioned in the Bible, and Chinese scholars carefully noted their spectacular appearance 3000 years ago.

Dr. Fred L. Whipple, director of the Smithsonian Astrophysical Observatory here, predicts that the final stage rocket for Russia's Sputnik I may fall Sunday, Dec. 1, or a day either side. Dr. Whipple, a recognized authority on comets, says the heavy motor of the rocket should survive the heat that destroys the outer casing as it hurtles through the atmosphere about 35 miles above the earth.

If it plunges at night it should make a spectacular 1500-mile sweep across the sky glowing red or blue-white and throwing off sparks and fragments of its outer shell.

In the daytime, Dr. Whipple says, it will be much less spectacular, but may show up leaving a trail of smoke like a high-flying jet.

Before the Sputnik era, a meteorite was strictly a flaming visitor from outer space. Of stone or iron and other metals, they catch fire when they hit the earth's atmosphere with terrific velocity. So called fireballs, they often sweep across the sky with a roar as their mass outraces the speed of sound.

Meteors, much more numerous than meteorites, are much smaller, like grains of sand. They often fall in great showers and burn up in the atmosphere, reaching earth only as fine dust.

If Sputnik's rocket, itself a satellite, falls outside the Iron Curtain it will be a prize catch for Western scientists—if it can be located.

The Smithsonian hopes to be able to alert watchers about 24 hours in advance of the death plunge on the theory that the more watching the better chance it will be observed. Dr. Whipple says there is a slightly greater possibility the final plunge will occur in this half of the world.

Dr. Charles A. Whitney, Smithsonian astrophysicist, asked what the mathematical chances were, said: "Well, a $10,000 insurance policy ought to cost you a lot less than a tenth of a cent."

Eisenhower Easing Back Into Routine

President Paints, Meets Aides, Sees King Of Morocco

WASHINGTON, Nov. 27 (AP) —Vice President Nixon said tonight President Eisenhower is "like a caged lion" in his eagerness to get back on the job full time.

Nixon also told a news conference at the White House: "I have no reason whatever to believe that the President is considering or will consider resigning."

WASHINGTON, Nov. 27 (AP) — President Eisenhower, described as bouncing back fast from his slight stroke, conferred today with members of his staff, signed documents—and capped things off with a visit from the King of Morocco.

The visit from the King, in the living room on the second floor of the White House, followed a day of steady reports that added up to a wholly encouraging picture.

A 1 p.m. medical bulletin on the President's progress from the blockage of a small brain artery —known as a slight stroke in common language — was typical with its accent on swift recovery.

"The President rested quietly throughout the night and slept well," the 1 p.m. bulletin said.

"He has spent the morning painting and talking with Mrs. Eisenhower and other members of his family, and holding brief meetings with the vice president, the assistant to the president, and the staff secretary.

"His progress to date is excellent."

Also, press secretary James C. Hagerty reported Eisenhower was amused, rather than disturbed, at the slight difficulty he was said to be having in speaking tongue-twisting words.

Easing Back Into Routine

This difficulty in medical terms, is known as a mild aphasia.

Hagerty said: "He would make a little slip and he would laugh and correct it."

Hagerty offered a laugh of his own as his reaction to stories printed in two London newspapers that a presidential resignation might be near.

"Just say I laughed," Hagerty told a reporter who asked for comment.

Hagerty, back on the job after a hurried return from Paris, also reported that the President was easing back into his daily duties.

He said the President signed various papers — none nationally important, brought by Andrew Goodpaster, staff secretary—and conferred on "everything under the sun" with Vice President Nixon and presidential aide Sherman Adams.

Budget Items Discussed

Eisenhower talked with Nixon and Adams while working on a painting in the studio across from his bedroom, and Hagerty said the subjects of the conversations included items to be in the 1958-59 budget, next month's meeting of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization in Paris, and legislative matters to be taken up with congressional leaders at White House conferences next week.

Nuclear Rocket Tests Planned

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M., Nov. 27 (AP)—The Atomic Energy Commission said today testing on static nuclear rocket propulsion may begin late next year.

By static testing, the AEC obviously meant testing on the ground.

The facilities to be used will be at the Nevada test site.

The AEC disclosed its plans in announcing award of a contract for $2,058,355 to Sierra Construction Corp. of Las Vegas, Nev., for construction work at the Jackass Flats technical area of the Nevada test site.

"The facilities will be used for static nuclear rocket propulsion testing, which is not expected to take place at the earliest before late in 1958," the AEC said in an announcement from the Albuquerque operations office.

"Research and development work on the rocket project is now being conducted at the Los Alamos, New Mexico, scientific laboratory of the AEC," it added.

It has been previously disclosed that Los Alamos, birthplace of the atomic bomb and the laboratory at which the hydrogen bomb was developed, was working on nuclear propulsion of rockets.

The project placed under contract today is expected to take about 11 months to complete. Four buildings and support facilities are included.

U.S. Presidents Have Been Surprisingly Healthy Lot

WASHINGTON, Nov. 27 (AP)—Possibly the most surprising thing about U. S. presidents is that they mostly have been such hardy, healthy creatures.

Much has been written on how this tremendous job wears a man down. And it unquestionably does. Yet only four presidents have died in office of natural causes—William Henry Harrison, Zachary Taylor, Warren G. Harding and Franklin D. Roosevelt.

Contrast this with the vice-presidency. It's usually considered a breeze, yet seven vice presidents have died on the job.

Their names hardly strike a memory now—George Clinton, Elbridge Gerry, William R. King, Henry Wilson, Thomas A. Hendricks, Garrett A. Hobart, William Sherman. But they, too, were once only a heartbeat away from the White House.

Even though the nation has been relatively lucky, it was barely in business when it began to worry about a question that is bothering it today: How is the health of the president?

George Washington took the oath on April 30, 1789, and within six weeks he was running a fever and suffering from a sore throat and ears of the beaver are equipped with valves which close when the animal dives and open when it comes to the surface.

A carbuncle, the doctors of that day called it.

But the rumors spread quickly. One said he had a malignant tumor. Another said he was a victim of anthrax, picked up from ailing animals, and also known as woolsorters' or ragpickers' disease.

Whatever it was, it was no laughing matter. The capital was in New York City, and Washington was in such pain that the authorities roped off Cherry street in front of his residence, to spare him the noise of passing traffic.

Finally a large abcess formed, and Dr. Samuel Bard, a leading physician, summoned his courage. He made a large incision and drained the sore. Recovery was to be slow and painful.

Washington had the seats in his carriage adjusted so that he could stretch out full length on trips about the city. And he stood through some ceremonies because he found it too painful to sit down.

Strokes Killed 8 Presidents

NEW YORK, Nov. 27 (AP)—Strokes—big brothers to the one that struck down President Eisenhower Monday—have killed eight of America's 33 presidents.

Still, most doctors insist that strokes are not the occupational hazard of the presidency, any more than they are for people in less responsible jobs.

Of our stricken presidents, three—Woodrow Wilson, Warren G. Harding and Franklin D. Roosevelt—have fallen to strokes in the past 34 years. Two—Harding and Roosevelt—died in office.

But the United States has no monopoly on this tragic killer. It was a stroke that reached into the Kremlin to take the life of Joseph Stalin.

Doctors say that strokes and heart attacks, caused by clogging of blood vessels in the vital brain and heart account for more than half of this nation's deaths, perhaps even more.

In spite of the panic it caused and the critical time at which it came, President Eisenhower's little stroke was not unlike those which many of us will experience as we advance in years.

Campaign Lands Yoga Foe In Jail

VALLEJO, Calif., Nov. 27 (AP)—William La Fond's one-man campaign against the practice of yoga landed him in jail.

The Solano County sheriff's office said it recovered 310 books on yoga from La Fond's car and accused him of filching them from libraries in 43 California communities; in Reno, and at Nevada State College.

La Fond, 34, is employed at Mare Island navy yard. J. Oller, sheriff's investigator, said La Fond used most of his Nov. 10-21 vacation to round up the books.

"He claims that yoga is the work of the devil and the public should not be exposed to it," Oller reported. "He has taken it upon himself to remove these books from public view."

Yoga is a philosophy of India origin. The believer combines intense mental concentration with a rugged physical discipline that includes controlled breathing and posture.

Ex-Policeman Leaves Estate To Waitresses

WASHINGTON, Nov. 27 (AP)—Former Police Pvt. William C. Truesdell left a number of surprises when he died Monday.

When police checked the modest rented room in which Truesdell had lived they found $21,120, mostly in $20 bills, in a trunk along with towels and clothing.

Lt. Wayland C. Whittemore, who had worked with Truesdell, later found two wills. One had been ripped in two.

The other, signed, witnessed, and dated Nov. 8, 1957, named as Truesdell's sole heirs two waitresses in Union Station's Gateway Restaurant here. They are Mrs. Pauline Henson and Mrs Barbara Graas.

The 63-year-old former private, who had no known relatives, described the two women as "my very best friends over a period of time."

The two women said they were astonished.

Hagerstown Faces Big Tax Rate Increase

HAGERSTOWN, Nov. 27 (AP)—Hagerstown's residents were warned today that they face the possibility of a doubled tax rate next year—and perhaps much more in 1959.

City Auditor John K. Baker III said to meet the proposed budget for next year of $2,324,000—which includes no pay increases—the city had these choices:

1. Increase the present 85 cent tax rate two and a half times.
2. Borrow money by issuing new city bonds.
3. Drastically cut the budget.

He said the city would end this year about $103,000 in the red, with the prospect of being more than a million dollars short next year, because the expansion of electric facilities cost $800,000 more than the original estimate; the possibility of having to refund $100,000 to county water users in overcharges if the Public Service Commission rules in their favor; and money already committed for expansion of the municipal airport.

Father Of Quads Slain By Robber

NEW YORK, Nov. 27 (AP)—Joseph Graber, 48-year-old father of Brooklyn quadruplets born in 1952, died today of a shotgun blast fired by a holdup man in Graber's liquor store late last night.

Police said Graber was shot by the robber as he turned toward his cash register to comply with the robber's demand for money. Officers were puzzled as to why the holdup man fired, but described him as a very nervous Negro.

The robber fled without taking any loot and has not been apprehended. Graber managed to stagger next door for help after the shooting and doctors worked on him for six hours in an unsuccessful attempt to save his life.

Graber and his wife received wide publicity at the birth of their quads, three girls and a boy. They also have three other children.

7 Million Hike In Md. School Budget Urged

BALTIMORE, Nov. 27 (AP)—The State Board of Education was told today by its budget advisors that the department needed 83 million dollars—nearly 7 million more than this year—for public education in 1958.

Covered in the budget are the public school system, teachers colleges, teacher retirement, the Department of Education expenses, vocational rehabilitation, appropriations to state-aided institutions and physically handicapped programs.

After the state board of education goes over the proposed budget and makes any changes it desires, it will submit the budget to the state's fiscal department for further review.

Eisenhower

Hagerty left open, at least technically, the question whether Eisenhower night not after all attend the NATO meeting in Paris Dec. 16-18. This was despite the fact that Eisenhower's doctors said yesterday that several weeks of rest and curtailed acitivity will be necessary to overcome the illness that struck him Monday.

Paris reports said the United States has suggested to its fellow NATO members that Nixon take the ailing President's place.

Hagerty said here the United States has queried the other 14 NATO governments as to whether the meeting should be a session of chiefs of state or simply of ministers.

"When we receive their decision, then it will be the decision of the President who will attend," Hagerty said.

Hagerty had gone to Paris to prepare for Eisenhower's attendance. In his absence from Washington, associate presidential press secretary Anne Wheaton was in charge of getting out news on what had happened to Eisenhower.

U.S. May Be Behind In Output Of Weapons Not Yet Thought Of

By J. M. ROBERTS
Associated Press News Analyst

The United States is now being told that it may be behind in the production of weapons which have not yet been thought of.

If that seems confusing, it is no more so than the thought of how such an incredible world situation has arisen and how long it can continue.

Sen. Lyndon Johnson says he gets the impression from the missile hearings now going on in Washington that these weapons, by the time they are fully developed, will have been made obsolete by new ones. Russia, with her highly concentrated, government-operated research programs, could produce them first.

In such a contest, Russia can not only mobilize as many scientific workers as she wishes. She can virtually put a stop to the world's peaceful scientific progress.

If Russia, with her concentration on weapons, can keep the rest of the world doing likewise she not only will cripple the pursuit of pure science on which so much of man's progress is based. She will also level a truly serious threat at Western economy, making possible the collapse upon which she so confidently relies to prepare the way for the spread of world communism.

Already the talk in Washington is of vastly increased defense expenditures over and above the sums already mentioned for missiles.

At the same time, increased prices and costs far above estimates are threatening the development of atomic energy for peaceful purposes. Dragging scientists away to work on weapons may be an even more serious threat.

This may not be so grievous for the United States, where natural power sources promise to keep atomic power on an uneconomical basis for years to come. But it would threaten the very existence of Britain, where atomic energy offers the major hope of avoiding collapse into an insular economy.

Thus we have a desperate circle of military preparedness in the effort to stay alive to fight the cold war.

The only way out of it is to stop the cold war.

None of the diplomats and none of the historical philosophers have produced any more than the haziest ideas of how to do that.

One of the haziest and therefore one of the most widely accepted ideas is that Russia is bound to come to a period of change herself. That an atheistic, unethical, wholly materialistic system just cannot exist indefinitely.

There is not much indication, however, that important forces of change are at work in Russia. She is making progress. No matter how repressed, her people are better off materially, and largely unaware of how far they are still behind. Material and scientific progress produce pride and give the Communist leaders an even greater power of repression.

Beck Discloses Teamster Drive

WASHINGTON, Nov. 27 (AP) — Teamster President Dave Beck, anticipating his union's expulsion from the AFL-CIO, announced yesterday a nationwide, 2½-million-dollar organizing drive to build up Teamster strength.

Beck told a news conference, following a meeting of the Teamsters' executive board, that he intends to stay in the presidency until a successor is qualified.

Beck's term expires officially Dec. 5 and Vice President James R. Hoffa has been elected to replace him, but Hoffa's seating has been barred by a U.S. District Court pending trial of a complaint by some union members the election was rigged.

Beck, who had announced plans to retire and who backed Hoffa as his successor, said:

"Beck is president of the Teamsters International Union and nobody else."

He said the approximately one million dollars which the Teamsters pay annually to the AFL-CIO, together with a matching amount from the Teamsters Treasury and perhaps 600 to 700 thousand dollars from Teamster affiliates, would be thrown into a major organizing drive.

"I think without question we will be expelled from the AFL-CIO," he told questioners.

"But whether we are or not, we are prepared to go ahead with this drive."

Expulsion of the Teamsters, recommended by the AFL-CIO Executive Board, will be up for decision at the federation's convention starting Dec. 5 in Atlantic City, N.J. The Teamsters, now under suspension, may speak at the convention but may not vote.

Doolittle, 60, Still Charged With Courage

By ARTHUR EDSON

WASHINGTON, Nov. 27 (AP)—At 60, Gen. James H. Doolittle still is charged with courage.

He flew nonchalantly into a Senate Preparedness subcommittee hearing yesterday, and before he had finished he had fired shots at:

Our high school education, jealousies among the military services, at least one defect in our economic system, and, indirectly, even at the Senate itself.

Well, you might expect that from Doolittle — and what an inappropriate name that is for do-everything Jimmy! He's only 5 feet 6, but he's always been a scrapper. High school boxing champion, stunt flier extraordinary, record-setter for cross country flights, leader of the first bombing raid on Tokyo.

Yesterday the senators wanted to ask Doolittle, who has been a scientist and businessman as well as an aviator, what we can do to make sure we're keeping up with the Russians.

Doolittle wasted no time. "We'd like to balance the budget," he said, "We'd like to cut military expenditures and reduce taxes, but the Russians won't let us."

Now most of the senators had had a hand in cutting this year's budget, and were proud of it. But they never let on they even heard the shot. Several nodded solemnly, as if that was what they had been saying all along.

Doolittle explained how Russian youngsters are crammed with physics and chemistry, and how too often our schools are geared to make sure the stupidest boy could pass.

And he obviously didn't approve of that part of our system which furnishes such small pay for a science teacher. "In Russia," he said, "he makes 50 times as much as a day laborer. Here they often don't get as much."

As for the eternal jousting in the military systems, Doolittle must have rocked many an old soldier, sailor and airman. "It may be," Doolittle said thoughtfully, "that we are headed toward a single system."

Doolittle said he's all for competition, but, he said, the competition ought to be against the opposing team.

As he talked, Doolittle looked relaxed and sure of himself. But observers nearby could see he was forever moving his feet, as if he were subconsciously using them to help fly a plane.

And it was interesting, too, that although in politics, "I told you so," is a frequently used weapon, Doolittle spurned an excellent chance to use it.

For on Jan. 27, 1954, he was saying, "It is extremely likely that the Soviets are ahead of us in the development of the long-range ballistic missile."

In those pre-Sputnik days, the story was worth exactly three paragraphs.

Byrd Told Debt Lid Hike To Be Avoided

WASHINGTON, Nov. 27 (AP)—Sen. Byrd (D-Va) said today he has been informed the Eisenhower administration expects to add two billion dollars to missile expenditures and cut the budget a billion elsewhere to avoid raising the debt ceiling.

Byrd, chairman of the Senate Finance Committee, said in an interview he had been assured by Secretary of the Treasury Anderson the administration will make every effort to live within the present 275-billion-dollar debt limitation.

Rendezvous At Sea

MANILA, Nov. 27 (AP)—More than 25 ships of the U. S. 7th Fleet and the Philippine navy with 18,000 men aboard are making a rendezvous at sea out of Manila and Okinawa ports for amphibious warfare maneuvers.

THANKSGIVING

From the forest, cold and murkey,
Rode the first Thanksgiving turkey
On a Pilgrim far from fat
Picking arrows from his hat.

Mrs. Pilgram and the kids
Fired the kettle, watched the lids
"Gee" they said "We're glad we're living.
This will be a swell Thanksgiving."

All they had was corn and turk,
Indians, winter, prayer and work.
Compare our lot with those early Yanks
And every day's a day of thanks.

Batista May Be Trying To Shift Responsibilities

By LARRY ALLEN

HAVANA, Cuba, Nov. 27 (AP) — President Fulgencio Batista seems to be trying to shift some of his responsibilities to other shoulders.

That is one interpretation given by some Cubans to a law recently enacted by Congress setting up a joint general staff for the army, navy and air force.

Another — which comes from sources opposed to Batista — is that he is looking ahead to assuming control of the armed forces — if he wants to — once his four-year term ends on Feb. 24, 1959.

Rebel informants claim Batista is paving the way for himself to eventually become "general in chief" of the joint staff, and thus be the man who really runs Cuba once a new president is elected in balloting set for next June 1. Batista's friends say this is far from the mark.

They say Batista, as commander in chief under the Cuban constitution, has long played the top role in the direction of the armed services. This has entailed the necessity of him spending most of his time at nearby Camp Columbia, rather than in the presidential palace in the heart of Havana. And that has kept him away for long hours from home life with his wife, four sons and daughter.

Now, says sources close to him, he has the chance to shift military responsibilities to the new five-member joint staff. The new law vests full authority in the new staff for running the armed forces. But there is a proviso that says the president still is the "supreme chief."

The law also extends the retirement age for top officers and provides those already retired can be called back into active service. It calls for close cooperation and coordination of police activities with those of the armed services.

It creates new military ranks. At the moment, the highest are major general for the army and rear admiral for the navy. In the future the army chief of staff will be a lieutenant general and the navy's boss a full admiral.

Batista is expected to shortly name his general in chief and four other members of the joint command. Some Cubans think the top post will go to Maj. Gen. Francisco Tabernilla, presently the army's chief of staff. Other names figuring in speculation for appointment to the joint staff are those of the navy's present chief, Rear Adm. Jose Rodriguez Calderon; retired generals Manuel Benitez Valdes and Genovevo Perez Damera, and former Col. Jose Eleuterio Pedraza, former army inspector-general and police chief.

Lucille And Desi To Buy Film Studio

HOLLYWOOD, Nov. 27 (AP) — Lucille Ball and Desi Arnez, just a couple of actors a few years ago, have agreed to buy a major motion picture studio which puts them among the biggest producers in town.

A spokesman said only minor details remain to be worked out for their purchase of RKO studio from the General Tire and Rubber Co. The latter firm bought it from Howard Hughes for 25 million dollars two years ago, made a few pictures, then let it lapse into idleness as far as theatrical films are concerned.

The RKO properties are being sold for six million dollars, said a spokesman for General Tire in Akron, Ohio. The purchase includes the Gower Street and Culver City studios, he said.

Martin Leeds, executive vice president of Desilu Productions, said Miss Ball and Arnez, who branched out into production of films for television after the success of their "I Love Lucy" show, will use the studio for an expanded production program.

D'Alesandro Seeks Demo Nomination For Governor

ANNAPOLIS, Nov. 27 (AP)—Baltimore Mayor Thomas D'Alesandro Jr., wearing a "lucky" bow tie, today filed as a candidate for Democratic nomination for governor in Maryland's 1958 primary.

D'Alesandro was the fourth member of his party to enter the race, and his filing guaranteed another lively intraparty fight for the office in the May 20 election. Comptroller J. Millard Tawes figures to be his principal opponent.

No Republican candidate has filed. Gov. McKeldin, Republican incumbent, is barred by the Constitution from a third term.

D'Alesandro seemed optimistic as he posted his $290 filing fee with Secretary of State Claude B. Hellmann. The 54-year-old mayor wore a blue and white polka-dot bow tie, the same pattern he has worn on 22 other occasions when he filed for public office.

D'Alesandro was victorious in all of those previous primaries and general elections for City Council, House of Delegates, Congress and his present office.

After signing his certificate in a brief ceremony, the mayor was shown McKeldin's newly redecorated office. The governor was in Baltimore making a speech.

A photographer asked D'Alesandro to pose at the governor's desk, but he said it would be "presumptious of me to try out the chair."

D'Alesandro will leave for a three-week vacation in Hot Springs, Ark. this weekend but he hopes to establish headquarters and get his campaign rolling before he departs.

Accompanying him to Annapolis were his son, Thomas III; Thomas N. Biddison, Baltimore City solicitor, and Thomas O'Donnell, aide and public relations adviser.

D'Alesandro's entry has been expected for a long time. Three others had beaten him to the Post: Tawes, former University of Maryland President H. C. Byrd and former Baltimore City Councilman John H. Reed.

The mayor's official entry came after several party leaders with whom he previously had been allied, including former Gov. W. Preston Lane Jr. and former U.S. Millard E. Tydings, endorsed Tawes and expressed hope that the party could avoid a bitter primary.

Earlier today D'Alesandro announced plans for filing in a statement calling for a change of faces in the party hierarchy.

"I believe the greater number of Democrats are ready to rid themselves and the Democratic party of the complacent, inefficient, selfish and reactionary leadership or lack of leadership which has brought nothing but Democratic defeat in every gubernatorial and U. S. senatorial election since Gov. Lane was elected in 1946," he said.

"The state of Maryland has suffered and suffered badly under two Republican administrations. The fact is that it sadly needs overhauling in every major agency . . ." D'Alesandro said.

The mayor outlined issues which he said he plans to discuss in detail in his campaign.

He said he felt Baltimore, under his administration, has "in the main met the test and has at least kept pace with the services and opportunities given the people in other great cities."

"I am anxious," he said, "to have the opportunity to inaugurate economical, efficient and progressive methods and policies in the state."

D'Alesandro wasted no time making a plea for the rural vote. He said the Republican administration showed "indifference" to the Maryland farmer by obtaining "absolutely no relief for our farmers" during last summer's severe drought.

The Baltimore mayor also said there is "much to be done" to improve the State's public educational facilities.

B&O Will Light Yule Tree Dec. 14

JACKSON, Md., Nov. 27 (AP)—The Baltimore and Ohio Railroad will light its "Travelers' Christmas Tree" Dec. 14 for the 10th time.

Howard E. Simpson, railroad president, will throw the switch lighting the old holly tree near the main line. The ceremonies will feature singing by the B&O Glee Club and Women's Music Club.

The tree will be lighted every evening at dusk through Jan. 1 and all B&O trains will slow down as they pass to permit holiday travelers to see it.

Partly Cloudy Thanksgiving Weather Seen

[By The Associated Press]

Cool, partly cloudy weather was in prospect for Marylanders this Thanksgiving Day as they planned to attend church services, attend football games, watch parades or stars at their television sets.

A few scattered showers were in prospect, the weather bureau warned, but not enough to cause wholesale changes of plans.

All government offices and virtually all businesses will be closed.

Thanksgiving services and masses are scheduled in cities, towns and communities throughout the day to carry out the true intent of Thanksgiving — to give thanks to God for what they've reaped.

The lighter side will come in for plenty of attention.

Football fans who don't want to take theirs by television have four games on tap. The City-Poly game in Baltimore's Memorial Stadium will be the 57th meeting, one of the oldest scholastic rivalries in the country. Allegany plays its cross-town rival, Fort Hill, at Cumberland, and LaSalle of Cumberland meets Beall of Frostburg. Virginia State meets Morgan State in Baltimore in the state's only college game.

Hughes Will Run

DENTON, Md., Nov. 27 (AP)—Del. Harry R. Hughes said today he will run for Democratic nomination to the State Senate in the 1958 primary.

Hughes, a member of the House of Delegates since 1954, will seek the seat now held by Sen. J. Layman Redden, another Democrat. Redden is expected to seek renomination.

Insects cost the United States about four billion dollars a year.

Rockville bridge, crossing the Susquehanna river, near Harrisburg, Pa., is the longest stone arch railroad bridge in the world.

Thanks for our Blessings

Thanksgiving is a time for family gatherings . . . for heartfelt rejoicing in the blessings of home, family, peace and plenty. It's a time to be joyful . . . and a time to be quietly, prayerfully grateful because the abundances and freedom our forefathers dreamed of are in reality. On this Thanksgiving, we join in giving thanks.

Keeping Up With Hollywood

By LOUELLA PARSONS

HOLLYWOOD, Nov. 27 (INS)—Happy Thanksgiving! Let us be grateful for our many blessings.

The grandson of Billy Sunday, the first of the widely publicized evangelists, arrives in town Monday to confer with Helen Bilki, formerly of Collier's magazine. Mrs. Bilki has acquired the rights from the Sundays to Billy's fabulous story, stranger than fiction. She'll sell it for motion pictures.

During the lifetime of Ma Sunday she would never allow the life of her husband to be put on the screen. When she died she left over ten million dollars, much of it to charity. She made a fortune in the stock market.

All the children of Ma and Bill Sunday are dead, the two boys and the daughter. Young George is the son of George Sunday, who was well known here in Hollywood as was his brother, Billy Sunday, Jr.

Audrey Hepburn and Mel Ferrer are in New York for Thanksgiving and Mel called to tell me their newest plans. "We're going to see 'Look Homeward Angel,' Ketti Frings new play. She's one of our closest friends," Mel said, "and of course, Kurt Frings is Audrey's agent."

While they are there they will take a special look at Tony Perkins in "Angel" with the hope that he will be in "Green Mansions" which Mel will direct next April. He tells me that the day after Christmas Audrey leaves for the Belgian Congo and Rome for "The Nun's Story."

"I go to the Orinoco River in South America to get shots for 'Green Mansions,' " he said.

This endearing story about Francis Cardinal Spellman was told me by Frank McCarthy. Said Frank, "Having been called back to the Pentagon by General Marshall in 1945, I went to an airport in the south of France to hitch a ride. The field was bare except for one small unmaned plane. The day was hot so I lay down in the shadow of the wing to await the arrival of the crew.

"I was awakened by a kindly man with the chevron of a Pfc., and a twinkle in his eye. He told me the plane was going to the U. S., and that Ambassador Robert Murphy would have to give me permission to go along.

"The ambassador arrived and introduced me to the 'Pfc.,' who turned out to be Archbishop Spellman, who had been in the front lines celebrating mass. One of the outfits had made him an honorary Pfc., and he was proudly wearing the uniform and badge of rank."

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random:

This is a happy Thanksgiving for Rosemary and Bob Newman. They expect their second baby in July. Bob is vice president of Samuel Goldwyn company.

Just before Ben Gazzara flew back to New York he held Barbara Rush's hand while she was having a tooth pulled. This romance is really hot, hot, hot.

Frances and Edgar Bergen are eating their Thanksgiving dinner in Oregon where they are on a hunting trip.

While he's in town to see his daughter, Princess Yasmin, Aly Khan is house guesting with the Ray Starks. They took Aly and a party to the Club Seville.

The fifth child of the Ed Muhls (he's head of U-I) is expected in time for Thanksgiving dinner tomorrow. Mrs. Muhl is having her baby at home by natural methods.

I have never seen a more beautifully appointed dinner party than the one celebrating Lucille Meyers' birthday in the Escoffier Room of the Beverly Hilton. The service, the music and the food, all presided over by Joaquin, were superlative in the continental manner.

On the eve of Thanksgiving Rock Hudson had dinner with Colonel and Mrs. Dean Hess at the Oyster House. Rock has moved from the Beverly Hills Hotel to an apartment, address known to only a few friends.

Great credit goes to Alan Hansen, who directed Margaret Truman in her first straight acting job in "Iris" for the Matinee TV show.

That's all today. See you Saturday.

Stock Market Rebounds, Cancels Tuesday's Loss

NEW YORK, Nov. 27 (AP) — The stock market today more than wiped-out yesterday's steep loss on news of President Eisenhower's illness and made one of its best advances of the year.

An estimated $4,800,000 was added to the quoted value of stocks listed on the New York Stock Exchange, based on the rise in the Associated Press average. This more than canceled yesterday's estimated loss of 4½ billion dollars.

Chrysler, prime contractor for the Jupiter, also rose 3¼ on this news. Douglas Aircraft, which makes the Thor, rose 6⅞. North American Aviation, manufacturer of rocket motors for both missiles, advanced 3⅛.

Key stocks made gains of 1 to 7 points and held despite periods of profit-taking. All 15 most active stocks advanced with oils and aircrafts the outstanding gainers. Among the 15 most active stocks six were aircraft or missile-related stocks and four were oils.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks rose $3.90 to $158.50 with the industrials up $6.90, the rails up $3.30 and the utilities up 40 cents. It was the best rise in the average since Nov. 15 following the lowering of the discount rate.

The Dow Jones Industrial Average rose 10.69 to 446.03.

Volume totaed 3,330,000 shares compared with 3,650,000 yesterday.

North American Aviation topped the most active list, up 3⅛ at 29¼ on 82,600 shares. Second was Getty Oil, up 3 at 26½ on 69,600 shares. Third was Westinghouse Electric, up 5¼ at 63½ on 53,700 shares.

Next came Standard Oil (NJ), up 1⅝ at 50¾, and General Motors, up 1 at 36⅛.

Double Or Nothing

PARIS, Nov. 27 (AP)—Simeon Geay, 36, confessed in court she swindled 26 persons of deposits ranging from $238 to $595 in offering her apartment for sale, but pleaded she did it to pay an old debt.

Moreover, she promised to reimburse all the plaintiffs by Feb. 15.

The judge agreed to let her try, warning: "You're playing double or nothing. If you don't abide by your promise the condemnation will be very severe."

Break For Schoolkids

LONDON, Nov. 27 (AP)—Moscow radio reports Russian schoolkids are being excused from homework over Sundays and festival days. The Education Ministry made the decision to avoid the risk of overwork, the radio said.

For good grooming—gestures and mannerisms need grooming, too.

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

Your Gestures, My Lady

You may greet your admiring public beautifully turned out, serene and confident of that bandbox look. But how long does it last?

Uncertain gestures and nervous movements can spoil grooming that starts out to be perfect. And you may not have any idea that your mannerisms need grooming. Others are aware, long before you are, that you've acquired little unattractive habits. But there are plenty of warning signs. For example, do your lips need new color too often even in these days of long-lasting lipstick? Could be that you have a habit of biting your lips, or moistening them.

Is a drawer in your bedroom full of beads that need restringing? There wouldn't be if you didn't handle your beads too much. Train your hands to lie composed in your lap. Do your skirts get shiny and out of shape too quickly? If they do, avoid a jerky tugging at your skirt to pull it taut under you as you sit down. It will arrange itself if you lower yourself slowly, as all graceful women do.

Do your coats and jackets show wear under the arm? Not unless you clutch bags tensely. Do wool dresses come through at the elbows? Too much elbow leaning explains that. Do your heels wear unevenly? Then you're not walking correctly, with your weight rolling down the middle of your foot.

Nail polish chipping or broken nails may be partly due to drumming your fingers on tables — of course you don't bite your nails — and roughness around the nails to tearing off or biting off cuticle.

Outside Job

BARABOO, Wis. (AP)—Operators of the Ski-Hi fruit farm told police they were losing seven or eight baskets of apples to thieves every night.

A guard was set out to watch but nothing happened. As soon as he was taken away, the apples disappeared again.

But one night Deputy Paul Schenck drove past the orchard and flashed his spotlight into the grounds. There were thieves—a herd of deer, daintly lunching on apples.

Modern Living Threatens Portugal Wine Industry

By JOSE SHERCLIFF

LISBON, Nov. 27 (AP)—The sun-baked vineyards of the Douro River in northern Portugal are besieged by an enemy still distant and strange to most of the valley's people: modern living.

The world is drinking less and less of the rich, aromatic port made from grapes grown on the Douro's steep terraces. Wine producers fear that the beverage of kings and queens may be following royalty into oblivion.

Before World War II, port exports annually brought Portugal 600 million escudos, or 21 million dollars. The war almost halted shipments of wine abroad, and since then exports have never been much more than half the prewar volume.

The United States bought about 62,000 gallons of port during the first seven months of this year, 13,000 gallons less than in the corresponding period of 1956.

Britain, always Portugal's best port customer, still buys about 23 times as much as the United States. But its wine imports have been reduced drastically by high excise duties and less spending for luxuries.

Port producers say modern living has hit them hardest. They cite these factors:

The era of the leisurely meal and conversational wine drinking is dying, even in Europe.

Occasions for toasting are fewer. Royalty traditionally is toasted with port, but the demand is less for exiles and pretenders than it was for monarchs who reigned and nobles who had wealth.

Even modern medicine has taken its toll. Port once was prescribed as a tonic, but in this area the vineyard has been vanquished by the drugstore.

Walrus "whiskers" are actually cartilage.

Secrets Of Charm

A Breath Of Fresh Air

You may spend your work-a-days in rooms where the air is scientifically regulated to be good for you. Even so, it's seldom that a breath of fresh outdoor air can't help to relieve tiredness, whether it's balmy or briskly cold.

Take a literal breather every now and then from the physical and mental fatigue of an indoor occupation. Breathe deeply at an open window, not too near for cold air to chill you, but near enough to draw the extra oxygen into your lungs for a bracer. And try these two ways to add pick-up for that let-down feeling:

1. If you're tired from sitting too long, stretch in every direction as you breathe the fresh air. Stretch, reach, arch your back. Then, because eye fatigue is partly to blame for ache in the muscles of the neck and back, make an effort to rest your eyes. Close them tightly with the lids squeezed together for a count of ten, relax the lids and open them, and repeat this several times before returning to your tasks.

2. If your weariness is the kind that comes from constant dealing with people — selling, teaching, acting as a receptionist, for example—make your mind a blank as you take deep breaths. Turn the activities of the past few hours out of your thoughts and massage the tendons in the back of your neck with a thumb and forefinger, starting at the base of the neck and working upward. The relaxing of those tight muscles, together with the tonic air, brings a wonderful feeling of relief.

Eisenhower Health Chart

WASHINGTON, Nov. 27 (AP) — From George Washington on, the American public repeatedly has been concerned about the health of its presidents. But probably no president before Dwight D. Eisenhower has had such a detailed record kept of his ailments.

Here, in brief, is the Eisenhower health chart:

Sept. 24, 1955—Has a heart attack in Denver.

Oct. 25, 1955—Walks for the first time since the heart attack.

Nov. 11, 1955—Flies back from Denver, to continue convalescence here and at Gettysburg, Pa., farm.

Dec. 28, 1955—Goes to Key West for 11-day vacation.

Jan. 9, 1956—Is ready for "full duties" once more.

Feb. 14, 1956—Is given okay by doctors if he wants to run for second term.

Feb. 29, 1956—Says he's available.

May 12, 1956—Is checked over at Walter Reed Hospital, is pronounced fit.

May 26, 1956—Plays first round of golf after heart attack.

June 9, 1956—Undergoes major surgery, what the doctors call "ilio-transverse colostomy" due to ileitis.

June 10, 1956—Walks in hospital.

June 13, 1956—Takes first food by mouth.

June 30, 1956—Leaves Walter Reed and goes to Gettysburg.

July 15, 1956—Returns to White House.

Oct. 29, 1956—Is checked over again; doctors say he's in good health.

Feb. 12, 1957—Has "a little rough throat" due to a cold.

June 9, 1957 — Suffers mild stomach upset.

Aug. 26, 1957—Inoculated for Asian flu.

Nov. 10-11, 1957—Spends night in hospital, is pronounced in excellent health.

Nov. 25, 1957—Has what is reported as a chill; acting White House press secreary Anne Wheaton says she has impression doctors don't regard it as serious.

Nov. 26, 1957, 10:22 a.m., is reported to be "progressing satisfactorily."

Nov. 26, 1957—3:10 p.m. is reported to have "suffered an occlusion of a small branch of the middle cerebral artery on the left side;" has slight impairment of speech.

The spitting snake of South Africa ejects a venomous spray from its mouth when irritated.

Pork Disposal System

JERUSALEM, Israeli Sector, Nov. 27 (AP)—Municipal inspectors have a ready means for disposing of pork seized under a law barring pig breeding and pork sales. They have just thrown 70 pounds of it to the lions, wolves and leopards of the local "Biblical Zoo."

Every year an estimated $100 million worth of power tools are bought by American home owners for use in their homes and by hobbyists.

As A Nation Gives Thanks

Because it stems from one of the most vigorous and striking of our national origins, Thanksgiving occupies a place of special sentiment in American hearts. Yet, amid our feasting, we are sometimes inclined to forget that Thanksgiving is, first of all, what its name implies—a religious commemoration.

Unless we express our gratitude to God for our national and individual blessings, the laden table bears just another meal.

Some will argue that there is little for which to be grateful in a riven world, where tension waits upon the doorstep, where so large a proportion of income goes into rearmament.

When Governor Bradford made provision for a day of thanksgiving and prayer, after the first harvest of the New England colonists in 1621, his was an expression of both gratitude and faith. The settlement clung to the fringe of an unknown continent, beset with enemies, vigilant, industrious and devoted to certain ideas. The colonists were there because of their love of freedom.

We are where we are on this Thanksgiving because we chose and choose to defend freedom. In this sense, our situation, our sentiment and our faith are one with those of the Pilgrims. What we have made is a moral choice. Not the least part of our gratitude should be for our freedom to choose. In large parts of the world, such a choice is no longer possible.

Having chosen, our spiritual resources as a nation and as individuals, which strengthen with use, should give us the faith of the Pilgrims that the future will be bright and full of promise.

These Days

By George E. Sokolsky

Thanksgiving 1957

On Thanksgiving Day, we should undoubtedly set aside some time to count our blessings. It is easier and to some, more satisfying to complain about troubles and irritations and disappointments. Only a few can truly say that their blessings are not greater than their troubles. Only few can find themselves so heavy-laden, that they do not know which way to turn. Perhaps the most satisfactory way for such is downward, on their knees in prayer.

Americans have thus far been saved from the devastations of foreign wars, from the raping of our daughters by undisciplined soldiers, from starvation during a siege. That we have been spared thus far, does not guarantee us that cowardice, indecency, laziness, bureaucracy and other sins of easy-living in excessive wealth will not open the door to a ruthless enemy.

Thanksgiving Day in the United States is associated with the Harvest Festival; the gratification of the early colonists that they shall not starve over the cold winter of New England. It originated in a religious mood, when having filled their bins and store-houses with meat and vegetables and beans and all the things the women put up in jars and crocks, they went to church to thank God for His mercy and then they ate enormously and long into the afternoon. Then they went to church some more, to pray some more.

We have learned many things since Pilgrim and Puritan and the Cavaliers and Roundheads and Catholics and Anabaptists escaped to the wilds which they called America. But we have not learned much about humanity and about the road to contentment and peaceful living which men found who believed in God's guidance and God's mercy.

It is probably true that if such men and women had not first settled America, this country could not have been developed, because the hardships of pioneering were so great as to be almost unbearable. Yet, if one acccepts God as a guide, no hardship is unbearable; no tribulation is beyond human endurance. The Hebrew Bible gave us the Book of Job to establish the psychology of the inner strength that overcomes all external trials. The phrase, "God's will be done," is fundamental in American life.

I think the most beautiful and most truly religious Thanksgiving Message that ever was given to the American people was penned by Abraham Lincoln, in March 1863. It is not only a tone poem but it fits the condition and mood of our country in 1957 more accurately than anything I might write today. These are some of Lincoln's words:

"Whereas it is the duty of nations as well as of men to own their dependence upon the overruling power of God, to confess their sins and transgressions in humble sorrow, yet with assured hope that genuine repentance will lead to mercy and pardon, and to recognize the sublime truth, announced in the Holy Scriptures and proven by all history, that those nations only are blessed whose God is the Lord;

"And insomuch as we know that by His divine law nations, like individuals, are subjected to punishments and chastisements in this world, may we not justly fear that the awful calamity of civil war which now desolates the land may be but a punishment inflicted upon us for our presumptuous sins, to the needful end of our national reformation as a whole people? We have been the recipients of the choicest bounties of Heaven; we have been preserved these many years in peace and prosperity; we have grown in numbers, wealth, and power as no other nation has ever grown.

But we have forgotten God. We have forgotten the gracious hand which preserved us in peace and multiplied and enriched and strengthened us, and we have vainly imagined, in the deceitfulness of our hearts, that all these blessings were produced by some superior wisdom and virtue of our own. Intoxicated with unbroken success, we have become too self-sufficient to feel the necessity of redeeming and preserving grace, too proud to pray to the God that made us.

"It behooves us, then, to humble ourselves before the offended Power, to confess our national sins, and to pray for clemency and forgiveness."

May those in Washington who have brought us within the peril of defeat read this message on Thanksgiving Day.

'Sputnik Or No Sputnik — Amen'

United States Probably Would Lose War With Russia Right Now

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON—The secret report on American defenses, parts of which have leaked to the press, is far more alarming than the leaks indicate. One clue to its alarming content is the fact that the White House wanted only two copies—the original and one carbon—made. It did not want other copies in existence which might show Congress how weak our defenses are.

For the depressing, inescapable deductions from this report are that the United States today has become a second-class power.

In brief, Russia could launch war on us at any time with almost certain odds of turning the United States into a socialist, satellite, subject nation.

This is not pleasant news to publish at the Thanksgiving season. However, the United States has come through some rough times in the past, dating back to the grim, bleak winters when the Pilgrim Fathers battled famine, cold, and Indians. And if the American people really understand the unadulterated, unsugarcoated truth regarding what faces them today, I am confident they will be equal to the occasion.

But they have to know the facts.

Truth Was Suppressed

The secret report which has caused such worried reverberations in high administration circles was prepared by members of the "Arden Farms" study group, a body of top businessmen, scientists, and economists in New York who began making studies in government when Eisenhower was president of Columbia University. Over 100 of them worked on this report for the Office of Defense Administration, and it is actually a composite document which goes into many different facets of our defense.

Real fact is that the report should send no tremors of alarm through the administration, because all the facts in it were known not only to the Pentagon, but to newsmen who took the trouble to dig into the defense picture. If the facts were not known to the White House, then it was because the White House was not sufficiently interested.

The secret report warns:

That Russia is ahead of us in all phases of modern warfare except atomic submarines.

That our forward Strategic Air Command bases could be knocked out by Russian missiles.

That the United States could be devastated by a mass Soviet attack;

That we would be lucky to destroy five or six Soviet cities in retaliation.

In brief, the United States would lose a war with Russia.

No Food After 20 Days

Further depressing facts include:

The United States would have food for only 20 days in case of Russian mass attack, because food is located in the great grain elevators and warehouses of the big cities. These cities would be wiped out first.

With strict rationing, the American people could get by on a low, 1,800-calorie subsistence diet. But no rationing cards have been printed and it would take four months in time of war to print them. The war might be over before then.

Most shocking revelation is that which shows our much-publicized forward SAC bases to be another "Maginot Line." Actually this is no revelation at all. Top officials have known for months that these Strategic Air Command bases in Turkey, Japan, most of Europe, were just as impotent as the huge wall of steel and concrete, the Maginot Line, behind which France basked in self-satisfied complacency prior to Hitler's attack.

However, the administration has deliberately gone out of its way to fool the public regarding the defense picture.

Substitute Nose Cone

When the President went on the air with his first "chins-up" telecast, he dramatically exhibited the nose cone of a Jupiter rocket, which he said had returned to the earth, thereby solving the question of re-entry through the atmosphere.

The Air Force scientific brain center in California, Ramo-Woolridge, has now written a report branding this a hoax.

The nose cone which Ike showed on television, according to the Air Force report, was not a test of re-entry at all. For this particular nose cone, the Air Force memo says, re-entered the atmosphere at a cockeyed angle which slowed it down; also rotated, which slowed it even more. Thus it landed at less than one-third the speed of a normal ballistic missile.

The test, therefore, concluded the Ramo-Woolridge memo, was of "negligible" value. Yet the President demonstrated the nose cone to the American public as a proof that it had solved the re-entry problem.

All of the above facts were known to the Defense Department at the time the missile was sent to the White House for the President's telecast. The question of whether Ike should show the nose cone was debated back and forth in advance at the Pentagon.

It was finally argued that, although this particular nose was not a test, another Jupiter nose cone had been witnessed coming cone down, though it was not recovered. Therefore, it would not be deceiving the public, officials felt, if a substitute nose cone was used.

Actually, the presentation of a nose cone as a brand-new triumphant achievement was deceptive in the first place. For last May, an experimental X-17 3-stage rocket was fired 650 miles straight up at Patrick Air Force Base, Fla., and the nose cone recovered intact.

These are some of the problems a confused public faces in trying to figure out just where we stand and why publication of the secret report on USA vs. USSR military strength is so important.

Our Sputniks And The Needle In The Haystack

By David Lawrence

WASHINGTON — Seeking to pinpoint responsibility as to why the Soviets took the lead in launching "Sputniks" and why America may be lagging in the missile race is like trying to find a needle in a haystack. The story is the familiar one of everybody having a different idea and of the tendency of many scientists to present varying ideas, so that no decisions were reached.

The reason it is familiar is that the same thing happened — but fortunately without disastrous results — when the hydrogen bomb was being developed. Leading scientists were reported to have told the Truman Administration, for instance, as late as the autumn of 1949 that the hydrogen bomb should not be developed for "moral reasons," that it was not "feasible," that there were "insufficient facilities and scientific personnel to carry on the development," and that it "was not politically desirable."

Those were the days when some of the scientists arrogated to themselves the role of political advisers — a role some of them have since maintained in their repeated opposition to further tests of the H-bomb despite Russia's continuance of testing. Yet it is by testing and experimenting that the Soviets have gone ahead.

It would be wrong to generalize on the ways of scientists, though some of them will have to bear the responsibility for America's recent defeats. Thus one of the best-informed men in the government, himself a scientist here has been on the inside of what's been happening in the missile and satellite field, describes the planning on the satellite this way:

"The idea was to act fast, get a ball into the air, and after that worry about the refinements."

This source states further that the United States knew the Russians were working on a "Sputnik" and that hence it would be desirable to launch America's satellite "as soon as possible."

But this simple plan, which could have been pushed to success, fell into the hands of numerous groups, and the original idea became burdened "with a complicated scientific program." The explanation continues as follows:

"There are good scientists and bad scientists. And when you have an idea and it is shared with others, well, all kinds of complications are added. There are second thoughts, doubts, and the people who get in on the picture at a later date have their own ideas. This and that scientist would want to add complicated scientific devices.

"This went on until it became too late and the Russians got ahead of us. This is what happened to our satellite."

Asked about the President's knowledge of the situation, the same source declared that Mr. Eisenhower seemed fully informed about the program itself, and added:

"Frankly, he amazed me with his knowledge. I expected him to be rather dull on the subject, but he seemed to know all about it, and seemed to have a good grasp of the scientific data."

The same individual said it seemed to him that it was not a question of the President not knowing but a question of his not being able to reach a decision. When, however, scientists disagree, it's small wonder that a layman like the President should not be able to make an explicit determination as to what to do.

When somewhat the same problem faced the Truman Administration and divided reports came in about the necessity of developing the hydrogen bomb, serious delays also occurred. Luckily, in the end a decision was reached which enabled America to perfect the H-bomb, but soon afterward the Communists in Moscow caught up. They had been helped by scientists of the West who defected or who gave information to the Soviet agents. Many scientists still believe in "sharing information" on a sort of citizen-of-the-world basis, and this has worked to the advantage of the Communist laboratories but not to ours.

The demand for a "czar" or a "boss" for the missile program assumes that the difficulties which arise in scientific matters can be met by a kind of dictatorship. It's just as easy for a "czar" to make a wrong decision as it is for anybody else when confronted with conflicting views as to what ought to be done in the scientific field.

The "czar" idea is based largely on the theory that "inter-service rivalries" — which could, of course, be conquered by civilian authorities — are at the bottom of the mess, when the truth is that scientific men as well as civilians are involved. It is being wisely suggested that the way out is to impress on the scientists summoned to advise the government that they must keep out of the political area, and for civilian authorities to order programs completed by fixed dates irrespective of whether the devices are "perfect." Then and only then can progress be measured, instead of waiting indefinitely for the debate on the drawing boards to be resolved.

Important above all else now is not the next satellite but the long-range missile and the anti-missile weapons being successfully developed in American military and scientific projects.

Baering Down On The News

By Arthur "Bugs" Baer

While the Pilgrims were hanging their hats up on arrows they took time out to give thanks. It was their sophomore year in America.

There were no early Colonial motels, package stores or government subsidies. But in the wooded supermarkets there was a short-legged ostrich called the turkey.

The first turkey was blunderbussed 336 years ago as the much smarter crow flies. The only other bird that can take a load of musket scrap-iron is squab rhinoceros.

There are bird sanctuaries for whooping cranes, ducks unlimited and the red-crested filaloo bird. The turkey is as unprotected as a bowler's thumb.

The robin and the oriole flip south in October but the turkey is gamer than a trout swimming upstream in a dry gulch.

The only double-dealing we get today is that second platter of Meleagris Americana. That's Latin but you can always point.

This stack of short takes wishes everybody happy holidays.

The Pilgrims found it a land flowing with milk and honey. And we added the gravy.

Miserable Poles

By Bob Considine

WARSAW, Nov. 27—(INS) — One would think the concessions the Poles have extracted from the Kremlin including the right to borrow money from the United States would tend to make them happy. They are miserable.

The whiff of liberty has produced only a vast longing for a lungful. They had the first course of what they feel could be, and should be, a full dinner—but the waiter hasn't come back. In a sense the Kremlin has played the ultimate cruel trick on Poland. It has given it an inch when every living cell calls for a yard. It must be recorded as one of the more excruciating teases in history.

There is the feeling here that Gomulka has gotten as much as can be diligently extracted out of Khrushchev and the Poles' demand for more will be diligently treated. Another satellite might shrug and say: what we've got is better than nothing. But the Poles are tortured by their hunger for more and their knowledge that to haul off and try to get more by force can result only in another terrible bath in blood.

The Poles now have religion taught to their children in school for one hour each day. Eighty per cent of more than 10,000 collective farms have been returned to private ownership.

Newspapers can occasionally tell the truth.

Gomulka finds himself in trouble on three fronts. There is to start with the loathing of the average Pole for Communism. Secondly he is not in especially good standing with the Kremlin. His efforts two weeks ago in Moscow to get Mao Tse-Tung to put in a plug for him apparently boomeranged. Finally his Polish Communist Party is losing most of its intellectuals who feel he has done a bad job as the big brother of Poland.

The Poles felt as bad about Russia's brilliant Sputnik achievement as did some of the American scientists. An American diplomat's wife speaking to a Polish official the other day sighed, "I wish we had gotten Sputnik first." His answer was packed with fervor and significance. "We too," he said.

This part of the world was discouraged and remains discouraged because America did not come to the aid of the Poznan factory workers or the Hungarian freedom fighters when they rose against the Communists who controlled them.

They think of us in a sense as the heavyweight champion of the world who refused to intervene while watching a bully kick a little kid around. You cannot find anyone who will swear that either the Voice of America or Radio Free Europe ever directly urged open rebellion. Instead they say that the tone of the broadcast, especially those of RFE, was both an enticement to rise and a promise of either American or United Nations intervention.

Unquestionably hundreds, probably thousands, died with the belief the Yanks were coming. The radio sounded to them as if they were. There also was wide surprise and displeasure over America's choosiness in accepting Hungarian refugees.

There was a correspondent visiting briefly in Sofia. And noticing the particularly clumsy job of microphone planting in his hotel room, he accosted the Communist agent assigned to tail him and asked, "Why do you go to all that bother? Are you trying to find some excuse for putting me in jail for something I might say about you in my room?"

"My goodness no," said the agent. "We put microphones in visitors' rooms because we hear so many useful criticisms of the government."

Turkey Not Only Traditional But Nourishing

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

The Thanksgiving holiday would not be complete without turkey. It is officially recognized as the meat of choice; the armed forces and most institutions serve this bird today as though duty duty bound to do so. It has become the symbol of our way of life, of our home, family, and abundant living.

Turkey is indigenous to America, but, according to Trevor L. Jones, the glamor surrounding the festive dinner springs from a European background. Early Spanish explorers took back to Spain some turkeys domesticated by the Aztecs of Mexico. Eventually they were introduced into other countries for special dinners and were plentiful by 1580. The Pilgrims found wild turkeys in Massachusetts and used them to supply the main course for their day of thanks.

Our forefathers, chose well, because turkey meat is nourishing. M. L. Scott, Cornell university nutritionist, raised a group of 50 male and 50 female turkeys from day old poults to market weight turkeys. They were selected from three well known species and fed the usual turkey rations. Five representative turkeys from each group were slaughtered, dressed, roasted, and analyzed for their nutrient composition.

This investigator published his results in the Journal of the American Dietetic association. He concluded: "The amount of roasted, ready to eat meat obtained from a live turkey was very high, amounting to approximately 45 per cent of the live weight of the mature broad breasted turkeys.

In addition, the quantity of cooked edible meat increases as the bird grows older and the protein content is high, amounting to 20 to 22 per cent of the total edible parts. Breast and leg meat has more protein by weight than beef, pork veal, or lamb.

Turkey meat contains approximately the same amount of calories as veal and round steak and three times as much riboflavin and niacin as other meats. Young chicken roasters have fewer calories and in this respect, are slightly superior for would be reducers.

Try And Stop Me

By Bennett Cerf

Life in Hollywood is like this: a big bad man-about-town was having difficulty persuading a sweet young thing to go home and hear his hi-fi set. "Look," he implored, "how long have I known you?"

"About three quarters of an hour," she estimated coyly.

"All right then!" he stormed. "Have I ever lied to you?"

A schoolgirl friend of Judy Holliday asked her, "What goes through your head when you have to kiss a half dozen different leading men in the course of a year?"

"I think of just one thing," admitted Judy candidly. "Germs!"

A rich old man threw his morning's mail angrily at his butler and grumbled, "All I ever get is stock dividends and checks!"

Are We In A Bear Market?

By ROGER W. BABSON

BABSON PARK, Mass. — Most readers are anxious to know whether we are now in a Bear Market. This applies to retail stores, real estate and commodity prices, as well as to stocks and bonds. Let me first say that everything points to good Christmas business. Retailers who are at their stores from opening to closing and who attend to business have nothing to worry about, at least this year.

History Of Bear Markets

During my fifty years of watching Wall Street, a part of which time I spent on Wall Street, I have witnessed five Bear Markets. Naturally they all follow Bull Markets such as we have seen in the past decade. In fact, there has been no other Bull Market during these fifty years as long and as profitable as the one we have experienced since 1942.

When Bull Markets increase and become overextended, that is the first indication of a Bear Market. Furthermore, such Bear Markets ultimately include commodity prices and real estate activity, as well as stocks and bonds. One type of activity, however, may anticipate or extend beyond another. The bond market may now be at the low point of its cycle, while the stock market is still high. Stocks are usually the first to collapse and the first to come back, whereas real estate is the last.

Different Rules

When we were on a Gold Standard, the best sign of the approach of a Bear Market was very high interest rates. Today, however, we are no longer on the Gold Standard, but on a Political Standard. The government in Washington cannot forever extend prosperity; but they can certainly stretch it out.

Another system which has worked fairly well in forecasting markets is the Dow Theory. This was originated many years ago by one of the former owners of the Wall Street Journal. I presume any reader can secure an explanation of it by writing the Wall Street Journal in New York City. Just now, however, this Dow Theory is out of style.

I personally have been guided by the Area Theory, so-called. Briefly, this means that as long as business remains near its normal line of growth we have nothing to fear, except for some very unexpected eventuality. When, however, business begins to form an Area of Prosperity above the normal line larger than previous areas, we must be on our guard. When the area becomes too large, an Area of Depression below the normal line begins to develop. Stocks and retail profits usually begin to decline in the last part of the Prosperity Area, and begin to come back in the early part of the Depression Area. The word AREA is used rather than high or low because if the area above or below the normal line is deep, then it will last a much shorter length of time than if it is shallow. Contrariwise, a shallow area will tend to last longer. Thus, under the Area Theory, you cannot make a forecast as to the length of a period of prosperity or of depression until you know its height or depth.

Study The Public Pulse

During previous periods of prosperity, a very small percentage of the people owned securities, or even real estate. Today, however, markets can be very much influenced by the thinking of small investors scattered throughout the country,—that is, "John Q. Public." Furthermore, owing to the strict supervision of the Securities & Exchange Commission, the bankers, investment dealers, and large investors cannot form pools to influence the market as they did before the Roosevelt regime.

This was very clearly illustrated during the second election of President Eisenhower. Most stock and business analysts felt that the "bloom was off the rose" in 1955 and believed a Bear Market had started. The tremendous victory of Mr. Eisenhower in 1956 entirely changed the attitude of John Q. Public. This caused another uplift to the market and an extension of the Period of Prosperity. Therefore, the real criterion now of whether or not we are in a Bear Market is how you and your neighbors feel. If most of you have faith in the present Administration, then a real Bear Market has not yet started. But, if you are fearful and unhappy, my guess is that the Bear Market has started in earnest.

GARNER IS 89 — John Nance Garner, who was Vice President of the United States from 1933 to 1941, is shown as he celebrated his 89th birthday at his home in Uvalde, Texas. As he spoke to reporters, he lit and relit his ever-present cigar with big kitchen matches.

Liquid Debits

HONOLULU (AP)—For nine years a Honolulu man unwittingly paid the water bill of the grocery store next door. The store got the resident's bill.

But when the store installed an air conditioning unit and the bill tripled, the home owner complained. It was discovered that the water meters had been switched when they were installed.

The home owner had paid $800 more than he should have.

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—Sometimes you say something so much you forget it yourself.

A local newspaper reporter recently told hundreds of telephone callers the city was changing to Standard Time and clocks must be set back.

The next day, the reporter was late for work. His reason: he forgot to set his clock back.

Taft Model

CINCINNATI (AP)—Sculptor Jacques Lipchitz is looking for someone resembling the late Sen. Robert A. Taft to use as a model in completing a bust of "Mr Republican."

The bust was commissioned by a group of Cincinnatians for inclusion in a projected Taft Memorial.

Lipchitz has fashioned a likeness in clay of the late Ohio senator but says having worked exclusively from photographs the portrait lacks the sense of life imparted by working from a live model.

Radio Waves Bounced Off Cloud Of Sodium Vapor

ALAMOGORDO, N. M., Nov. 27 (AP)—A cloud of sodium vapor was discharged at an altitude of more than 80 miles over New Mexico yesterday and radio signals were bounced against it in an experiment.

The Air Force Missile Development Center said hundreds of amateur radio operators over the Southwest were invited to beam their radio waves toward the cloud.

The vapor cloud was seen in the predawn sky by early risers in many parts of the Southwest. It was borne aloft in an Aerobee-Hi-Hi, described as an Aerobee-Hi rocket with added power. The rocket was believed to have soared to 125 miles altitude, which would be an altitude record at this location for such a rocket.

The firing was part of "Operation Smoke Puff," in which scientists are trying to learn more about the effect on radio transmission by sunlight.

The experimenters theorize that the ionosphere, an electrically charged layer beginning about 25 miles above the earth, is affected by sunshine. At night, radio signals from the West are commonly received at distant points, while in the daytime they are not. Scientists in today's experiment were trying to confirm their theory that radio signals bounce off the ionosphere at night but not in the daytime.

The sodium vapor cloud, which was ionized (electrically charged) was used as a known factor in the testing.

The rocket was fired at 5:55 a.m. It traveled at a speed of 3,600 miles an hour and released the sodium between 80 and 100 miles above the earth.

Medical Museum

PRAIRIE DU CHIEN, Wis. (AP)—The Wisconsin State Medical Society has revealed plans for a medical museum to be built near here.

Dr. William Stovall, chairman of the society's historical section, said a museum devoted exclusively to the development of medicine has never been tried before.

Retired doctors have turned in early office equipment from as far back as Wisconsin's territorial days. Pictures of noted physicians will be featured as well as diagrams of the progress of medicine.

Ex-Counterspy Reveals MVD Plotted Tito Death

NEW YORK, Nov. 27 (AP)—Former counterspy Boris Morros says a 1953 Soviet secret police plot to assassinate President Tito was canceled only 12 minutes before the hour appointed for killing the Yugoslav Communist leader.

Morros, writing in the current issue of Look magazine, dates the time set for Tito's execution as March 1953. Stalin, who carried on a bitter five-year propaganda war with Tito over the Yugoslav leader's resistance to Moscow domination, died early that month. His secret police chief, Lavrenty Beria, is believed to have been removed from power shortly afterward when other members of the hierarchy frustrated his bid for total power.

Morros, a former Hollywood motion picture producer, was identified by the U.S. Justice Department last January as a key figure in the apprehension of a Soviet spy ring in the United States. He has said he served the United States for 12 years as a counterspy member of an international Soviet ring.

Morros' article tells this story about the purported plot against Tito:

The Russian secret police began laying their plans in 1950, with an experimental abduction and assassination of three Yugoslav officials in Vienna. Morros was sent to Yugoslavia by the Russians later that year, posing as an American movie producer. His assignment was to "case" the country.

It was not until March 1953, however, that he learned a Soviet agent named Yefimov, with a staff of six assistants, had been assigned to liquidate Tito. An agent disguised as a Catholic priest was to do the killing.

In May, Morros says he met Yefimov's superior, who reported the agent was in a hospital with a nervous breakdown. All the machinery had been set in motion for Tito's assassination in March when an urgent telephone call came from Moscow canceling the plot.

"Yefimov got word of this just 12 minutes before the murder was to take place," Morros wrote. "In those 12 minutes, Yefimov had managed to halt all the cogs in the complicated machinery set up for the assassination, but the strain of it had put him in a mental hospital."

Prized Autographs

HOPEWELL, Va. (AP) — "With my best wishes for the health and happiness of Miss Sarah A. L. Roane, Washington, May 21, 1838," reads a notation in a little girl's book which is now the prized possession of Mrs. George C. Ruffin here. It was signed "M. Van Buren," the nation's eighth president. It also contains the signatures of Franklin Pierce and James Buchanan, the 14th and 15th presidents, and Daniel Webster, Henry Clay and John C. Calhoun. Other signatures include those of 46 members of the Senate who served with Sarah's father, William Harrison Roane of Virginia. Mrs. Ruffin is a grand daughter of Sarah.

Rest Stop

NORFOLK, Va. (AP)—Six wild Canada geese swooped down on Sunset Drive and police detective M. L. Ange had to apply his brakes to avoid them. Some dogs rushed up and three flew away, but three others just spread their wings and hissed. Ange, with the help of a citizen, captured three. He said they seemed hungry and exhausted and unable to take off. They were given some food and a rest before being freed to continue southward.

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 no trump	Pass	2 clubs	Pass
2 spades	Pass	4 spades	Pass
Pass	Pass

Opening lead: Queen of hearts.

One of the 10 major changes that have been made in the Goren system is the addition of the "2 Club Convention," which enables the partner of an opening no trump bidder to probe for a possible major suit fit. Proper use of this device produced a crucial swing for one team on a hand taken from a recent team-of-four match.

In the sequence shown above, North's two club bid is artificial and requests his partner to show a biddable four card major suit. South rebid two spades which North cheerfully raised to game.

South won the queen of hearts lead in his hand and laid down the ace-queen of trumps. When East showed out, declarer abandoned the suit temporarily, shifting to king and a small diamond. West discarded on the second lead and the ace won in the dummy. A diamond was returned and East was in with the queen. A heart was led to shorten dummy's trumps. Declarer countered by playing another diamond. West trumped in but could not prevent declarer from taking 10 tricks now.

At the other table, North raised South's opening no trump bid directly to three. Even tho they were not using the two club convention, they might have reached the four spade contract, had North chosen a three diamond response for which he had the required 10 points. South could now bid three spades just as a check back on the way to no trump and North, of course, would choose the suit contract.

West opened the deuce of hearts against three no trump. Since this apparently marked him with four of the suit and East with six, declarer felt that if anyone were short in diamonds, it would be East. So he cashed the king of diamonds first and when West showed out on the next lead, the contract was down one.

North contended that his partner should have played spades first, but if East discards properly, South will still have the diamond guess. At four spades he could afford to lose a diamond trick and still make the hand.

North-South vulnerable. North deals.

The bidding:

North	East	South	West
1 no trump	Pass	4 clubs	Pass
4 diamonds	Pass	7 spades	Pass
Pass	Pass

Opening lead: Queen of clubs.

Before the reader begins to question the authenticity of the bidding sequence in today's hand, we would like to point out that South was employing the Gerber four club convention. This is one of the changes recently made in the Goren system, all of which are included in the new edition of "Contract Bridge Complete."

The convention provides that an immediate response of four clubs over an opening bid in no trump is artificial and asks for aces in the Blackwood manner. It has the advantage of initiating the inquiry at a lower level and thus avoids the reaching of an unnecessary high contract.

North's response of four diamonds shows four aces or none and South, of course, has no trouble determining which it is. However, his assumption that the diamond suit contained no losers was unwarranted. He could not hope to find the queen in North's hand (for that would give him a 19 point no trump) so that unless North had a doubleton ace, the contract might hinge on a finesse which does not present attractive odds for a grand slam undertaking.

West led the queen of clubs against the final contract and all declarer could see was that a successful finesse in diamonds would net him the 13th trick. When West turned up with the queen, the contract was doomed.

South had overlooked a line of play that would have afforded him much better odds than the 50-50 chance of a finesse. All he needed to find was a 3-2 trump break.

After winning the opening lead, declarer ruffs a club with the ten of spades. He then cashes the king of trumps and plays low to dummy's nine, as both defenders follow. He now ruffs another club, enters dummy with the ace of diamonds, and ruffs out the last club. Dummy is entered with the ace of hearts and the eight of spades draws the outstanding trump, on which South discards his losing diamond. Declarer's hand is now high.

Washington Proves City Can Overcome Big Odds

WASHINGTON, Nov. 28 (AP) — the two-millionth resident came to greater Washington recently, proving that a city, like an individual, can succeed despite tremendous odds.

For the new capital of the new nation was a weak and ugly baby. Many predicted a quick, merciful death. As late as the Civil War, Wheeling, W.Va., was getting votes as a much better site for a promising government.

Foreign visitors almost always tossed off harsh words, liberally sprinkled with ridicule, to describe the place. Its marshes were unhealthy, its climate rotten, its roads impassable, its architecture pretentious.

Then, when it began to thrive, the criticism ran the other way. For years now any politician worthy of his ghost writer has complained that Washington has overgrown and must be whacked back.

Yet in spite of hell, high water and political promises, it's gone ahead steadily, inching further and further into the surrounding Virginia and Maryland hills.

Each month, the Board of Trade reports, the area grows by more than 5,000.

In the beginning this was called the Federal District, but as early as 1791 the New York Journal had a name for it. Why not call it Washingtonople?

President George Washington, as an old surveyor, took a steady interest in the place, helping in its planning and in the sale of its lots. Presumably he agreed with Maj. Pierre Charles l'Enfant who, in designing the city, looked over all promising spots for the Capitol and reported that he could find no more advantageous site than the one "on the west end of Jenkin's Heights, which stands as a pedestal waiting for a monument."

Well, the pedestal got the monument, but when Sam Houston arrived here as a young congressman in 1823 he still could cross a sheep meadow on his way to work.

By Lincoln's time Henry Adams still could complain the place looked as if it were just begun. "As in 1800 and 1850, so in 1860," Adams said, "the same rude colony was camped in the same forest, with the same unfinished Greek temples for workrooms, and sloughs for roads."

Anthony Trollope looked at Washington and found it "trackless, unbridged, uninhabited and desolate. Tucking your trousers up to your knees, you will wade through the bogs, you will lose yourself among rude hillocks, you will be out of the reach of humanity. If you are a sportsman, you will desire to shoot snipe within sight of the President's house."

Even then, the town had naughty habits. A British diplomat claimed it was no place for young men because of "the pernicious local habit of swallowing cocktails."

But the world wars came, and the government and town grew to sizes our planners never dreamed of.

It has its drawbacks, of course. The streets still are impassable during rush hours. And, as Sen. Wayne Morse (D-Ore) has said, it has slums "in which I'd not keep my cattle."

Yet the chances are the hours-old son of Robert and Elizabeth Cash, picked by the board of trade as "No. 2,000,000," will learn to love the old place—the Capitol dome at night, the majesty of the Lincoln Memorial, the excitement of watching Congress in an hour of decision, these lovely fall days.

The statistics prove it: Washington is a hard place to leave.

Fire Taken To Firemen

COPENHAGEN, Nov. 27 (AP) — Bus driver Rasmus Andersen knew just what to do when his bus caught fire at Soroe, Denmark. He hustled his nine passengers out and sped to the fire station where firemen saved most of the bus from enveloping flames. Andersen was unhurt.

Better Late Than Never

MONTREAL, Nov. 27 (AP)—Philip Grunfeld, a retired Budapest wine merchant who came to Canada in 1952, is applying for Canadian citizenship at age 98. The law requires fluent speech in English or French or at least 20 years' residence, but son Leslie Grunfeld hopes to find a judge who understands foreign words can't come easily to a man of nearly five score.

Union Drops Petition For Tannery Vote

MOOREFIELD — The Amalgamated Butchers and Meat Cutters Union of North America has withdrawn the petition requesting a vote by the Loewengart & Co., Moorefield Tannery Division workers Tuesday, December 3.

The tannery workers held a meeting and dinner November 15 at the Moose Home at which time a petition was signed by an overwhelming vote against joining the butchers union. The Loewengart Company had no part in the meeting and the dinner was paid for from workers' funds.

After withdrawing the petition for a vote the union has charged the Loewengart Company with unfair labor practices before the National Labor Relations Board. The union has charged the company with permitting supervisory personnel to participate in the workers' dinner and meeting. Tannery workers report the petition was withdrawn because of the adverse vote.

Robertsons Home From Europe

BARTON—Mr. and Mrs. Edward H. Robertson recently returned home after spending 20 months in Europe. Their eight-day trip home was by the USNS Geiger. The Robertsons spent most of their time abroad in Verdun, France where he was a member of the Army in the Headquarters of the Advance Section, Communications Zone, Europe.

While in Europe the Robertsons visited points of interest in Germany, Belgium, Holland, Luxembourg, Austria, Switzerland, Italy and France. The highlights of their touring included the famous Keukenhof Gardens at Lisse, Holland during the height of the 1957 tulip season. They were also present at the annual Oktoberfest in Munich, Germany during last October.

Food Boxes Are Sent To Area Needy

By early yesterday afternoon, the Associated Charities had distributed 59 Thanksgiving food boxes to needy families of this area.

Plans were also being made to pack and deliver additional food which was being turned over to the County United Fund agency for distribution.

All of the food was donated by organizations and individuals who ask the agency to pack and deliver their Thanksgiving gifts for the needy.

From Fort Hill High School, the Alpha Beta and Junior Tri-Hi-Y units and the Boys Hi-Y collected 1,192 food parcels and $1.70 in cash in the project headed by Dorothea Harper and Marcella Adams.

The Allegany High School Tri-Hi-Y, in a drive headed by Marlene Brings and Carole Ransom, turned over 560 items of food and $72.72.

The Sophomore Class of Ursuline Academy gave two big boxes of food and a turkey.

A number of other organizations and individuals also asked the Associated Charities to deliver food they had collected.

The Thanksgiving food distribution was a little bigger than last year, when 52 baskets were delivered.

which held cargo, general stores, food, water and beer.

The Mayflower II is small enough — some of tugs which shove liners around New York's harbor are longer — but it seemed like a ship's model as it was spotted late this summer near some of the world's largest passenger liners.

The day I saw it, Mayflower II was lying within a few hundred feet of the sleek Queen Mary, which is 1,020 feet long and with a beam of 118 feet and looked considerably more suitable for an Atlantic crossing in early fall.

The visit to the Mayflower II was a grand history lesson to school children of the New York area, who were thronging to the ship by the thousands this fall.

The original Mayflower sailed from Plymouth, England, on September 16, 1620, bound for Virginia with 101 passengers—Puritan Separatists from the Church of England.

The vessel reached Cape Cod on November 9 and after an exploration tour of the forbidding coast, landed at Plymouth, Mass., December 21.

The passenger count remained constant during the ocean passage, as one of the Puritans died and was consigned to the deep, and a baby was born during the voyage.

The Puritans started work on their first common house on Christmas Day in 1620 but continued to live in the Mayflower during the long winter.

Sickness struck most of the band during the winter and less than half survived until April, when the Mayflower set sail for England. Not a Puritan deserted his new country as Mayflower departed.

Things began to go better for the settlers as the year advanced and their hearts were gladdened by a bounteous harvest that October.

With the crops safely in Governor William Bradford ordered the three-day feast and celebration which became the first American Thanksgiving.

Moss To Be Sentenced

Robert J. Moss, 70-year-old North Centre Street man who was found guilty of contributing to the delinquency of minors, will be sentenced at 10 o'clock Saturday morning by Associate Judge Morgan C. Harris in Allegany County Circuit Court.

Moss originally was convicted on the charge in Juvenile Court on June 25 by Magistrate Fred H. Anderson. He appealed an 18-months sentence to the Maryland House of Correction and the conviction was upheld in the higher court by Judge Harris on October 28.

Judge Harris said yesterday that he had deferred sentence until he received reports of the parole commissioner and a local psychiatrist's examination of Mr. Moss. These reports have been received, the judge said, and court will pass sentence on Saturday.

The former detective agency watchman was charged with harboring young girls between the ages of 11 and 18 overnight at his home, Judge Harris said.

satin midriff and lace bolero. The maid of honor's gown is shrimp colored and she will carry a cascade bouquet of pink mums and pompons. The bridemaids' gowns are peacock blue, and their flowers, yellow mums and pompons.

Mrs. Buser chose a Dior blue silk dress with matching hat and navy accessories for her daughter's wedding. Mrs. Davis has a medium blue lace over silk taffeta, with black and beige accessories. Each has an orchid corsage.

The bride is a sophomore at Potomac State College. The bridegroom completed two years at the college and is employed by the West Virginia Pulp and Paper Company at Luke.

Mr. and Mrs. Buser will entertain with a reception in the church social hall, following the ceremony. Pink pompons and smilax are being used in the decorations, while an arrangement of pink and white carnations and pink mums center the refreshment table. A miniature bride and bridegroom top the tiered wedding cake, with silver candelabra at either side.

For their wedding trip to Williamsburg, Va., the bride has selected a medium blue wool, princess style dress, with winter white hat and black accessories. With it she will have an orchid corsage. Upon their return Mr. Davis and his bride will reside at 18 North Main Street, Keyser.

Man Jailed In Default Of Motor Vehicle Fine

Carl D. Hott, Wiley Ford, yesterday was committed to Allegany County Jail for 30 days in default of $100 fine for a motor violation.

ciation, called attention to the settlement of Berkeley Plantation, which later became the birthplace of William Henry Harrison, ninth President of the United States.

"The estate, once known as Berkeley Hundred, was a grant made by the English King to Sir George Yeardley, Richard Berkeley and others, in 1619. The proprietors, aboard the 'Margaret,' instructed the settlers that 'the day of our ship's arrival . . . . shall be yearly and perpetually kept as a day of Thanksgiving.'

"The sailing ship landed her passengers at what is now Berkeley, on the James River, Va., December 4, 1619—exactly one year and 17 days before the Pilgrims arrived in Massachusetts," he added.

Fort Hill Eyes Double Title In Finale With Allegany

Campers Are Last Obstacle In Path To Perfect Season

Triple Tie Possible In City Race; Game Here Set For 1:30

A pair of football titles are at stake today as a highly favored Fort Hill High School team, leading the city race and the Cumberland Valley Athletic League, tangles with Allegany High School's Campers in their twenty-second annual Thanksgiving Day contest at 1:30 p. m. at Fort Hill Stadium.

Fort Hill must win this one to capture the double crown outright. A defeat for the Sentinels would throw the city championship race into a triple tie for the first time since 1943 and would tie Westminster's Owls with Fort Hill for the C.V.A.L. title, which the Sentinels shared with North Hagerstown last year. In the city race, Fort Hill holds a 13-6 decision over LaSalle which knocked off Allegany to the tune of 19-6. Fort Hill has chalked up six straight wins in the C.V.A.L. while Westminster, which has completed its season with a 6-1 mark is anxiously awaiting the result of the game here. The Carroll Countians were trounced on their home field by Fort Hill, 34-14, and then came here to clobber Allegany, 39-0.

A victory today will give Fort Hill the distinction of being the first Cumberland team to reel off ten wins in one season. Fort Hill's best previous mark was 9-0 in 1950. The Sentinels had reeled off nine in a row in 1948 but were held to a 6-6 tie by Allegany in the finale on Turkey Day. Allegany, now 4-5, also was 9-0 before the holiday battle nine years ago. The Campers' last 9-0 seasons date back to the days when Herman Ball coached at Campobello.

Sentinels Show Power

Allegany surprised in its last outing by whipping Frederick by the score of 20-0, the same score by which Fort Hill downed the Cadets on September 20 [illegible] Sentinels were just gettin[illegible]ed then and seem to pac[illegible] power now judging from the scores of the last four contests in which Coach William P. Hahn's aggregation has rolled up 177 points while holding the opposi[illegible] to 20.

Eight of the teams that have played Fort Hill also have met Allegany. The Sentinels have whipped all of them and scored 278 points while yielding 39. Coach Chester G. Payne's eleven has split even and registered 101 points to the opposition's 84.

Allegany enters today's game trying to shake a losing jinx that has plagued the team since the last win over their crosstown rivals on Turkey Day in 1945. With the exception of tie games in 1948 and 1953 Fort Hill has won 'em all and has shut out Allegany the past two years. In 21 years of competition Fort Hill has won the city title ten times and shared it on four other occasions. Over 29 seasons Allegany has copped 11 city championships and tied for the honors five times.

Fort Hill Leads 12-9

The overall series between the schools as they gird for their 25th game shows Fort Hill with 12 victories and Allegany with nine. Three games ended in tie scores. Just think how things have changed. In 1945 when Allegany won the Campers held a 9-2 lead in the series.

Thirty-one seniors, 19 at Allegany and 12 at Fort Hill, will end their scholastic grid careers in today's contest.

Approximately 4,500 persons are expected to sit in on the game and also witness the usual colorful ceremonies in which the bands of both schools will participate at halftime.

Officials For Game

Officials will be Art Goldchein, Salem, W. Va., referee; Fred "Chick" Weihl, Weston, W. Va., umpire; Newton Anderson, Buckhannon, W. Va., head linesman, and William Kafer, Weston, field judge. Weihl and Anderson will be officiating here for the 12th straight year while Goldchein will be making his fifth appearance and Kafer his second.

Fort Hill as the host will occupy the concrete stand on the west side of the stand while Allegany's cheering section will be in the wooden bleachers.

SENTINELS AIM FOR PERFECT SEASON—Fort Hill High School's Sentinels have a threefold mission in today's game with Allegany's Campers. A victory would give Coach William P. Hahn's eleven a perfect season record of 10-0 and would enable the boys from the Greenway Avenue School to win outright the C.V.A.L. and city championships. In nine games played to date, Fort Hill has rolled up 314 points while holding the opposition to 39. Members of Fort Hill's squad, left to right: FIRST ROW—Dalton Hillegas, Jack White, Mike McCullough, Fred Ringler, Gerald Meeks, Douglas Metz, Paul Appel. SECOND ROW—Dennis Burns, David Durst, William Hahn, Charles Robinson, Thomas Davis, Fred Joyce, Thurl Roy, Thomas Shaw. THIRD ROW—Wayne Boor, assistant coach; William Koerner, Leroy Henry, Gary Holtzman, Gene Counihan, Walter Reed, Robert Rowley, Robert Van Meter and William P. Hahn, head coach. FOURTH ROW—Edward Shoup, Roger Mangus, Joseph Berringer, Walter Thomas, Bruce Smith, Jack Weltman, Michael Holshey, Laurance Cosgrove, Floyd Grimm, Dennis Stoops. FIFTH ROW—Gary Thompson, manager; Robert Shrewbridge, Danny Athey, Kenneth Boggs, Frank Robinson, William Hauger, Richard Keller and Leonard Hymes, manager.

BEST YEAR?—This is Coach William P. Hahn's 13th season at Fort Hill and it will be his best if the Sentinels can defeat Allegany today. Only once before has a Hahn-coached team had a perfect record and that was in 1950 when the Sentinels won nine in a row. In 1948 Hahn's team won nine straight but was held to a 6-6 tie on Turkey Day. Today Fort Hill will be going for its 10th victory of the campaign. Hahn's 13 teams have won 101, lost 13 and played six ties for an average of .680.

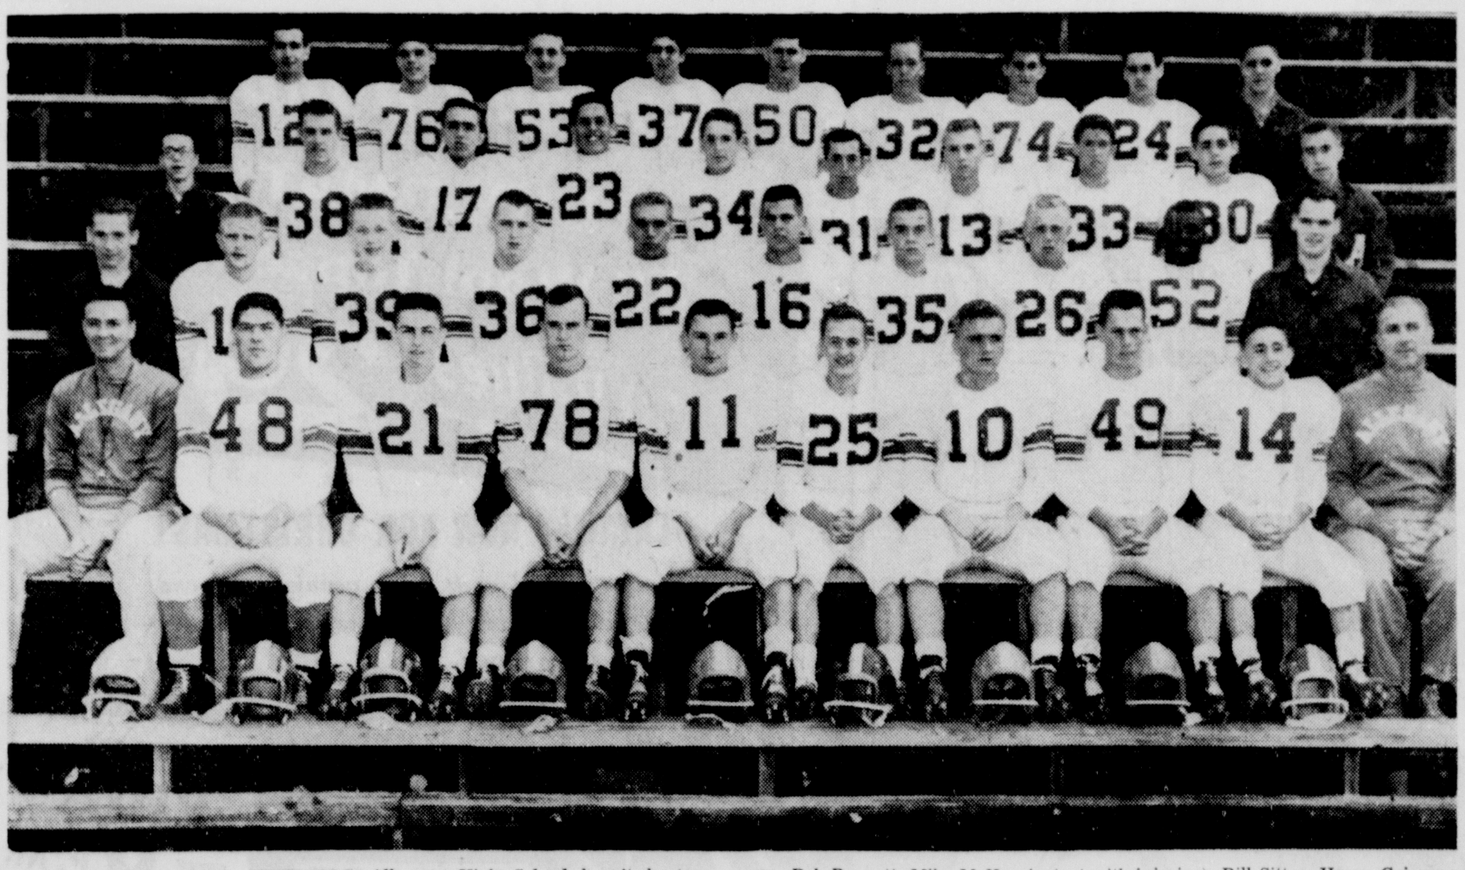
DUNEDIN, Fla., (AP) — Dick Mayer, National Open and World Tournament golf victor, compiled a record vote in the balloting for the "professional golfer of the year."



THEY'LL TRY TO STOP SENTINELS—Allegany High School hasn't beaten Fort Hill since 1945 so they'll try again to shake the losing jinx when they tackle their crosstown rivals in their 22nd Thanksgiving Day battle. If Allegany fails to win this one the Campers will finish below the .500 mark for the second straight year. They're 4-5 now. Last year AHS posted a 3-5-1 mark after seven straight seasons of .500 or better. Pictured above, left to right: FIRST ROW—Coach Chester G. Food Boxes Are Sent To Area Needy

By early yesterday afternoon, the Associated Charities had distributed 59 Thanksgiving food boxes to needy families of this area.

Plans were also being made to pack and deliver additional food which was being turned over to the County United Fund agency for distribution.

All of the food was donated by organizations and individuals who ask the agency to pack and deliver their Thanksgiving gifts for the needy.

From Fort Hill High School, the Alpha Beta and Junior Tri-Hi-Y units and the Boys Hi-Y collected 1,192 food parcels and $1.70 in cash in the project headed by Dorothea Harper and Marcella Adams.

The Allegany High School Tri-Hi-Y, in a drive headed by Marlene Brings and Carole Ransom, turned over 560 items of food and $72.72.

The Sophomore Class of Ursuline Academy gave two big boxes of food and a turkey.

A number of other organizations and individuals also asked the Associated Charities to deliver food they had collected.

The Thanksgiving food distribution was a little bigger than last year, when 52 baskets were delivered.

which held cargo, general stores, food, water and beer.

The Mayflower II is small enough — some of tugs which shove liners around New York's harbor are longer — but it seemed like a ship's model as it was spotted late this summer near some of the world's largest passenger liners.

The day I saw it, Mayflower II was lying within a few hundred feet of the sleek Queen Mary, which is 1,020 feet long and with a beam of 118 feet and looked considerably more suitable for an Atlantic crossing in early fall.

The visit to the Mayflower II was a grand history lesson to school children of the New York area, who were thronging to the ship by the thousands this fall.

The original Mayflower sailed from Plymouth, England, on September 16, 1620, bound for Virginia with 101 passengers—Puritan Separatists from the Church of England.

The vessel reached Cape Cod on November 9 and after an exploration tour of the forbidding coast, landed at Plymouth, Mass., December 21.

The passenger count remained constant during the ocean passage, as one of the Puritans died and was consigned to the deep, and a baby was born during the voyage.

The Puritans started work on their first common house on Christmas Day in 1620 but continued to live in the Mayflower during the long winter.

Sickness struck most of the band during the winter and less than half survived until April, when the Mayflower set sail for England. Not a Puritan deserted his new country as Mayflower departed.

Things began to go better for the settlers as the year advanced and their hearts were gladdened by a bounteous harvest that October.

With the crops safely in Governor William Bradford ordered the three-day feast and celebration which became the first American Thanksgiving.

Moss To Be Sentenced

Robert J. Moss, 70-year-old North Centre Street man who was found guilty of contributing to the delinquency of minors, will be sentenced at 10 o'clock Saturday morning by Associate Judge Morgan C. Harris in Allegany County Circuit Court.

Moss originally was convicted on the charge in Juvenile Court on June 25 by Magistrate Fred H. Anderson. He appealed an 18-months sentence to the Maryland House of Correction and the conviction was upheld in the higher court by Judge Harris on October 28.

Judge Harris said yesterday that he had deferred sentence until he received reports of the parole commissioner and a local psychiatrist's examination of Mr. Moss. These reports have been received, the judge said, and court will pass sentence on Saturday.

The former detective agency watchman was charged with harboring young girls between the ages of 11 and 18 overnight at his home, Judge Harris said.

Mr. and Mrs. Buser will entertain with a reception in the church social hall, following the ceremony. Pink pompons and smilax are being used in the decorations, while an arrangement of pink and white carnations and pink mums center the refreshment table. A miniature bride and bridegroom top the tiered wedding cake, with silver candelabra at either side.

For their wedding trip to Williamsburg, Va., the bride has selected a medium blue wool, princess style dress, with winter white hat and black accessories. With it she will have an orchid corsage. Upon their return Mr. Davis and his bride will reside at 18 North Main Street, Keyser.

ciation, called attention to the settlement of Berkeley Plantation, which later became the birthplace of William Henry Harrison, ninth President of the United States.

"The estate, once known as Berkeley Hundred, was a grant made by the English King to Sir George Yeardley, Richard Berkeley and others, in 1619. The proprietors, aboard the 'Margaret,' instructed the settlers that 'the day of our ship's arrival . . . . shall be yearly and perpetually kept as a day of Thanksgiving.'

"The sailing ship landed her passengers at what is now Berkeley, on the James River, Va., December 4, 1619—exactly one year and 17 days before the Pilgrims arrived in Massachusetts," he added.

Fort Hill Eyes Double Title In Finale With Allegany

Campers Are Last Obstacle In Path To Perfect Season

Triple Tie Possible In City Race; Game Here Set For 1:30

A pair of football titles are at stake today as a highly favored Fort Hill High School team, leading the city race and the Cumberland Valley Athletic League, tangles with Allegany High School's Campers in their twenty-second annual Thanksgiving Day contest at 1:30 p. m. at Fort Hill Stadium.

Fort Hill must win this one to capture the double crown outright. A defeat for the Sentinels would throw the city championship race into a triple tie for the first time since 1943 and would tie Westminster's Owls with Fort Hill for the C.V.A.L. title, which the Sentinels shared with North Hagerstown last year. In the city race, Fort Hill holds a 13-6 decision over LaSalle which knocked off Allegany to the tune of 19-6. Fort Hill has chalked up six straight wins in the C.V.A.L. while Westminster, which has completed its season with a 6-1 mark is anxiously awaiting the result of the game here. The Carroll Countians were trounced on their home field by Fort Hill, 34-14, and then came here to clobber Allegany, 39-0.

A victory today will give Fort Hill the distinction of being the first Cumberland team to reel off ten wins in one season. Fort Hill's best previous mark was 9-0 in 1950. The Sentinels had reeled off nine in a row in 1948 but were held to a 6-6 tie by Allegany in the finale on Turkey Day. Allegany, now 4-5, also was 9-0 before the holiday battle nine years ago. The Campers' last 9-0 seasons date back to the days when Herman Ball coached at Campobello.

Sentinels Show Power

Allegany surprised in its last outing by whipping Frederick by the score of 20-0, the same score by which Fort Hill downed the Cadets on September 20 [illegible]e Sentinels were just gettin[illegible]ed then and seem to pac[illegible]e power now judging from the scores of the last four contests in which Coach William P. Hahn's aggregation has rolled up 177 points while holding the opposition to 20.

Eight of the teams that have played Fort Hill also have met Allegany. The Sentinels have whipped all of them and scored 278 points while yielding 39. Coach Chester G. Payne's eleven has split even and registered 101 points to the opposition's 84.

Allegany enters today's game trying to shake a losing jinx that has plagued the team since the last win over their crosstown rivals on Turkey Day in 1945. With the exception of tie games in 1948 and 1953 Fort Hill has won 'em all and has shut out Allegany the past two years. In 21 years of competition Fort Hill has won the city title ten times and shared it on four other occasions. Over 29 seasons Allegany has copped 11 city championships and tied for the honors five times.

Fort Hill Leads 12-9

The overall series between the schools as they gird for their 25th game shows Fort Hill with 12 victories and Allegany with nine. Three games ended in tie scores. Just think how things have changed. In 1945 when Allegany won the Campers held a 9-2 lead in the series.

Thirty-one seniors, 19 at Allegany and 12 at Fort Hill, will end their scholastic grid careers in today's contest.

Approximately 4,500 persons are expected to sit in on the game and also witness the usual colorful ceremonies in which the bands of both schools will participate at halftime.

Officials For Game

Officials will be Art Goldchein, Salem, W. Va., referee; Fred "Chick" Weihl, Weston, W. Va., umpire; Newton Anderson, Buckhannon, W. Va., head linesman, and William Kafer, Weston, field judge. Weihl and Anderson will be officiating here for the 12th straight year while Goldchein will be making his fifth appearance and Kafer his second.

Fort Hill as the host will occupy the concrete stand on the west side of the stand while Allegany's cheering section will be in the wooden bleachers.

SENTINELS AIM FOR PERFECT SEASON—Fort Hill High School's Sentinels have a threefold mission in today's game with Allegany's Campers. A victory would give Coach William P. Hahn's eleven a perfect season record of 10-0 and would enable the boys from the Greenway Avenue School to win outright the C.V.A.L. and city championships. In nine games played to date, Fort Hill has rolled up 314 points while holding the opposition to 39. Members of Fort Hill's squad, left to right: FIRST ROW—Dalton Hillegas, Jack White, Mike McCullough, Fred Ringler, Gerald Meeks, Douglas Metz, Paul Appel. SECOND ROW—Dennis Burns, David Durst, William Hahn, Charles Robinson, Thomas Davis, Fred Joyce, Thurl Roy, Thomas Shaw. THIRD ROW—Wayne Boor, assistant coach; William Koerner, Leroy Henry, Gary Holtzman, Gene Counihan, Walter Reed, Robert Rowley, Robert Van Meter and William P. Hahn, head coach. FOURTH ROW—Edward Shoup, Roger Mangus, Joseph Berringer, Walter Thomas, Bruce Smith, Jack Weltman, Michael Holshey, Laurance Cosgrove, Floyd Grimm, Dennis Stoops. FIFTH ROW—Gary Thompson, manager; Robert Shrewbridge, Danny Athey, Kenneth Boggs, Frank Robinson, William Hauger, Richard Keller and Leonard Hymes, manager.

BEST YEAR?—This is Coach William P. Hahn's 13th season at Fort Hill and it will be his best if the Sentinels can defeat Allegany today. Only once before has a Hahn-coached team had a perfect record and that was in 1950 when the Sentinels won nine in a row. In 1948 Hahn's team won nine straight but was held to a 6-6 tie on Turkey Day. Today Fort Hill will be going for its 10th victory of the campaign. Hahn's 13 teams have won 101, lost 13 and played six ties for an average of .680.

LaSalle, Beall To Play Twelfth Time

Geatz's Team Hopes To Cop 9th Of Series

Beall Is Reported At Full Strength, Seeks Repeat Win

LaSalle High School, loser of four close games, two by the margin of a single touchdown, one by three points and another by a single tally, is hopeful of closing its football season on a winning note when it tackles Beall High School's Mountaineers in the season finale today at 1:30 o'clock at Frostburg.

It's the twelfth meeting of the Explorers and the mountain City eleven and LaSalle will be shooting for its ninth win. Since 1946 when the schools met in their first Thanksgiving Day contest, LaSalle has won eight times, Beall twice and one game ended in a tie.

Lost Four Close Ones

LaSalle goes into the final game with a 3-6 record but four of these losses were heartbreakers. St. Francis of Spring Grove, Pa., beat the Explorers by one point, 24-23, Shade Central, Pa., won by three points, 16-13, and Fort Hill and Bedford scored one-touchdown victories over Coach Norman Geatz's aggregation. LaSalle, incidentally, gave Fort Hill its toughest game of the season in losing 13-6, and whipped Allegany 19-6.

The Explorers are not taking Beall lightly after the big surprise on Turkey Day, 1956, when a 96-yard pass play by Pete Wilson and Jim Waites in the closing minutes of play knotted the score and Bill Groves' placement kick gave the Mountaineers a thrilling 7-6 triumph.

Beall, winding up its first campaign under the wing of Coach Jerry Calhoun, who is credited with putting Berkeley Springs High School in the grid limelight in recent years, is enjoying its best season since the fall sport was revived there in 1946. The Mountaineers have won five and lost four and if they take today's game it will give them their best record in 12 years.

Beall at Full Strength

Coach Calhoun reports that Beall will be at full strength for the big one. Bill Minnick, hard-hitting halfback, who has been out of action most of the season with illness and injuries, will play and others who had been out with the flu are ready for duty.

The game is expected to attract about 2,500 spectators.

Officiating will be the "Four J's" — James Gaffney, referee; John Shelton, umpire; John Fox, headlinesman, and John Blough, field judge.

Fuoss Turns Author • • • Leaders Since Bruce

Federation Reports • • • Mike Enjoys Big Day

By C. V. BURNS

EBBIE FINZEL, Beall High School basketball and soccer mentor, reports that Donald Fuoss, who coached Shepherd College football teams in 1953, 1954 and 1955 and was voted Coach-of-the-Year in West Virginia after the Rams chalked up an 8-0 record and won the WVIAC title with 4-0 in 1955, is the author of a new football book just off the presses with a price tag of $4.95.

The title of the 192-page volume is "Quarterback Generalship and Strategy" and is highly recommended by Carl Wise, backfield coach at Georgia Tech.

Fuoss' 1955 Shepherd team scored 299 points to 31 for its eight opponents.

Don left Shepherd after his big year there to accept the position of head coach at East Orange (N.J.) High School where he is now located. At Shepherdstown his three teams won 15, lost 7 and played two tie games.

Jesse Riggleman was his successor in 1956.

SEASON RECORDS of nearby Pennsylvania high school teams are:

Somerset 10-0, Berlin 2-7, Boswell 2-7, Everett-Southern 4-4-1, Ferndale 5-2-1, Johnstown Central 5-3-1, Johnstown Central 5-4, Meyersdale 3-6, Shade-Central 6-4, Franklin 4-3, Westmont 2-5-1 and Windber 5-3.

SINCE "Lefty" Bruce set the all-time city scoring mark of 138 points in 1948 here are the leaders for the past eight years:

1949—Donnie Lease, Allegany, 88. 1950—Dickie Beard, Fort Hill, 115. 1951—Dickie Beard, 60. 1952 — Bobby Christ, LaSalle, 88. 1053—Harold Hudson, LaSalle, 54. 1954—Harold Hudson, 11. 1955—Bob Fletcher, Allegany, 67. 1956—Dalton Hillegas, Fort Hill, 54.

Hillegas will repeat this year. He has 72 points with one game left to play.

TONY VENZON, of Jerome, Pa., the National League umpire, who is busy this winter on the banquet circuit, was a basketball star under Coach Bruce Fisher when the latter was at Ferndale High, Johnstown, and played in several games for the Yellowjackets against Walt Bowers' Allegany Campers at Campobello.

THERE'S an interesting story in the latest issue of the Rawlings Roundup Magazine, published by the sporting goods firm, about the National Federation of State High School Athletic Associations.

The federation was formed in 1920 and its object is "to protect and supervise the interscholastic athletic interests of the high schools belonging to state associations."

H. V. Porter, of Chicago, who has served as executive secretary and treasurer since 1940, has conducted football clinics for the Allegany Board of Education in recent years and his photo appears with the article.

The federation report shows there the 12,000 schools sponsoring baseball teams, 22,000 basketball teams, 11,000 grid teams and 12,000 tracks teams.

There are 1,500,000 playing basketball, 660,000 football, 500,000 participating in track and 400,000 in baseball.

RECENTLY at the Fort Miami track in Ohio, a nine-year-old gelding named Scrutiny, 5 to 1 shot, pranced to the winner's circle and then died of a heart attack.

We recall a similar case five years ago at Fairgo when Belle Moose, a 9-year-old mare, won and toppled over dead on the track in front of the grandstand.

Belle Moose is the only horse buried at the local half miler. The owner of the mare wanted the grave dug in the infield but finally settled for the animal's final resting place back of the cow barns.

THE New York Times reports that Mike Sorrentino, St. Albans, Long Island, jockey, who had his early successes at Fairgo, enjoyed one of the best days on New York tracks Monday when he posted a "triple" with Nicole ($1.90), Mike's Treat ($59.30) and Equisse ($17.00).

Mike has ridden 45 winners on New York tracks this year and is ney 19-14-13 at Jamaica.

JIM BUNNING, Frank Lary, Paul Foytack, Billy Hoeft and Duke Maas, Detroit pitchers compiled a record this year which marks them as one of the most enduring and efficient staffs in Tiger history.

The youthful quintet worked more innings than any five Tigers on record; accounted for all but 14 of the Detroit victories; pitched in 80 per cent of the innings played; started all but eight games; made 56 relief appearances, and combined a unit earned run average of 3.28.

NICK PIETROSANTE, Notre Dame's fullback, is in his seventh season playing football for Notre Dame. A junior from Ansonia, Conn., Nick played four years at Notre Dame High there.

HENRY WAJDA, 23-year-old riding sensation at Narragansett Park, pronounces his Polish name Vida with a long "i" and a short "a." He has ridden nearly 150 winners this season.

Texas Aggies And Longhorns Tangle Today

VMI Risks Unbeaten Record Against VPI

By HUGH FULLERTON JR.
[By The Associated Press]

The Texas Aggies, ineligible for the Cotton Bowl last year when they won the Southwest Conference championship, make a final bid today for the glory they missed last season.

The Aggies play their greatest rivals, the Texas Longhorns, in the top game of a Thanksgiving Day program.

Texas A&M, rated fourth in the nation, lost one conference game to Rice this season by a single point and stands a chance of losing out for the Cotton Bowl the same way. The teams are tied for the conference lead with 4-1 records. The Aggies thus have to win this one to stay in the running.

Owls May Get Bid

If Rice beats last-place Baylor as expected on Saturday, the Owls likely will get the bowl bid because of their victory over A&M.

Two other conference leaders put their records on the line today. Utah, 4-1 in the Skyline Conference, takes on Utah State. Virginia Military Institute risks its unbeaten status and a likely bowl bid against Virginia Tech.

Other Thursday games include a pair of rather meaningless Eastern traditionals—Penn-Cornell and Colgate-Brown—plus Wyoming vs. Denver, Miami (Ohio) vs. Cincinnati and William and Mary vs. Richmond.

The Army-Navy game is Saturday's top event.

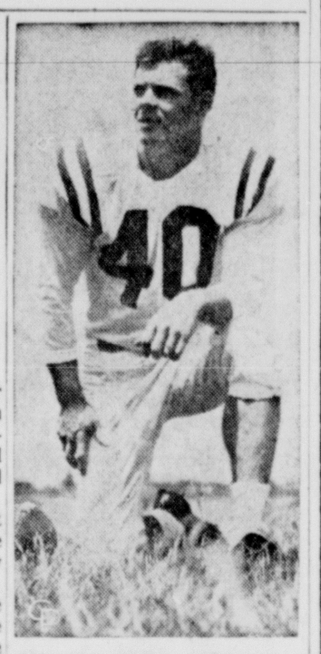
Other major Saturday tussles find Auburn defending its No 1 national ranking and its Southeastern Conference lead against Alabama, Mississippi meeting Mississippi State in a game involving title chances and bowl bids for both teams; Oklahoma winding up against Oklahoma State, and Rice-Baylor.

VMI In Line For Bowl

If surprising VMI (8-0-1) gets past Virginia Tech, it is in line for an invitation to play Mississippi Southern in the Tangerine Bowl.

Two bowl pairings already are settled—Ohio State vs. Oregon in the Rose Bowl and Oklahoma vs. Duke in the Orange Bowl. If Navy beats Army Saturday, the Midshipmen will be receptive to a Cotton Bowl bid.

With Auburn ineligible for a post-season game because of NCAA probation, the Mississippi-Miss. State winner likely will go to the Sugar Bowl while the Gator Bowl seeks to match the No. 2 teams of the Southeast and Southwest.



ONE-MAN GANG—Outstanding star of the North Carolina State football team this year, Dick Christy, senior from Chester, Pa., capped a big year when he scored all 29 points his team made in the thrilling 29 to 26 victory over South Carolina. Christy, who had scored four touchdowns and two extra points, kicked a 36-yard field goal after a penalty was called on South Carolina on the last play as time ran out. (International)

Colonials List Eight Contests

Detroit And Wichita On 1958 Grid Card

WASHINGTON, Nov. 27 (AP)—George Washington announced today an eight-game 1958 football schedule including two new opponents, Detroit and Wichita.

Robert K. Faris, GW athletic director, said another game may be set for Nov. 8, now open along with Oct. 10-11. Except for Navy on Nov. 15 at Griffith Stadium, each of the Colonials' home games will be played on a Friday night.

The schedule:

Sept. 20 at Detroit; 27, at The Citadel.

Oct. 3, Furman; 17, Richmond; 24, William & Mary.

Nov. 1, at West Virginia; 15, Navy; 22, at Wichita.

ALL-TIME BATTERY

NEW YORK — (NEA) — The professional football fan's idea of a dream passing attack could be made up of Washington's Sammy Baugh throwing—he completed 1,709 passes, 187 for touchdowns—and Don Hutson catching. With Green Bay, Hutson caught 489 passes, 101 for TD's.

Army, Navy Will Split Million Dollar Melon Saturday

Middies Are Slight Choice In Big Game

Color TV To Bring $185,000; Scalpers Ask $20 For Ducats

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 27 (AP)—No matter who wins the 58th Army-Navy football game Saturday, the academies will be "winners" at the box office.

They'll have about a million dollars to divide equally, less expenses. This includes $600,000 in ticket sales (100,000 at $6 each), $185,000 from color television and the rest from parking, programs and concessions.

Navy Slight Choice

Winning the game is uppermost—with Navy a slight favorite—but neither school is turning away from the big cash reward.

Col. Francis J. Roberts, director of athletics at West Point, says "we've got to get big gates."

That's why year after year the football classic is held in the 100,000-seat Municipal Stadium.

"The U.S. government makes no money available for us for sports," Roberts pointed out. "So it behooves us at the academy to make up our own deficit because we have no endowments or rich alumni."

The profits from the game pay for the costs of the entire sports program at both schools.

It was tough this year as usual to get a ducat—even at scalper's prices which generally run more than triple the original $6 selling price.

Scalpers Get $20

There were a few scattered tickets available from scalpers today, but most were deep in the end zone and the asking price was $20 each.

Except for a smattering of complimentary tickets—to the White House, Cabinet members, Supreme Court justices—nearly all the seats go to the undergraduate cadets and midshipmen and to the members of their respective athletic associations (alumni).

West Point and Annapolis each share the 102,000 tickets equally, after small sales are made to congressmen, to the press, and to other game affiliates, such as the City of Philadelphia which purchased 900 this year.

Roberts said he didn't mail out the Army tickets until last week—and Navy athletic officials followed a similar hold-to-the-last-minute policy. This cuts down the opportunity of tickets getting into the hands of scalpers.

Racing Nets West Virginia Three Million In Revenue

Total Of $23,753,682 Bet At Charles Town

CHARLESTON, W. Va., Nov. 27 (AP)—Racing at the three West Virginia horse tracks this year drew more than three million dollars in state revenue.

Meetings at the Charles Town, Waterford Park and Wheeling Downs tracks totaled 262 days.

Julia DeBolt, chief clerk of the State Racing Commission, reported today that the State's revenue would be at least $3,098,394.

Detroit Needs Win To Remain In Contention

Lions Will Face Green Bay Today

DETROIT, Nov. 27 (AP)—On a day when they could have been looking down at the rest of the National Football League's Western Conference clubs, the Detroit Lions must capture a victory tomorrow from the injury-beset Green Pay Packers to stay in contention.

Coming into the home stretch of the campaign, the in-and-out Lions are deadlocked with the San Francisco 49ers for second place behind the surprising Baltimore Colts.

Rookie Coach George Wilson said early in the season he would settle for a 9-3 record and "take my chances" against the rest of the league. Wilson's team has lost four games but he still believes his team has a solid chance to win the division title.

"Don't forget," Wilson reminded, "that the Colts still have to play Los Angeles twice and Frisco on the West Coast."

A loss to the Packers tomorrow in the traditional Thanksgiving Da contest almost certainly would wipe out Detroit's title hopes. Their coach accused them of "looking ahead" when they lost to the Chicago Bears last Sunday 27-7.

"Maybe we were thinking how nice it would be to win two games within five days and let the rest of the league worry about us for a while," said Wilson. "At any rate, we had a big letdown and now our job is that much tougher. We have to win the rest of our games and hope someone knocks the Colts and 49ers off for us."

Tomorrow's game starts at noon (EST) and will be nationally televised (CBS-TV). The Lions are generally favored by seven points and in some quarters are rated a 10-point edge over the Packer, who jolted Detroit's title hopes on the same field jest a year ago with a 24-20 triumph.

Pennsy Colleges Form Conference

PITTSBURGH, Nov. 27 (AP)—Eight independent district colleges have voted to form the Western Pennsylvania Intercollegiate Athletic Conference.

They are Carnegie Tech, Duquesne, Geneva, Grove City, St. Francis, St. Vincent, Westminster and Waynesburg.

Dr. Will W. Orr of Westminster was named president.

The conference will sponsor competition in football, basketball, baseball, track, cross country, tennis, golf, swimming and possibly wrestling and soccer.

CHANNEL TRY AGAIN—Known as the "Polar Bear" around Charleroi, Washington county, Pennsylvania, Gus Brickner has announced he will try to swim the English channel again next summer. Brickner, who is 45, had to give up this year when he suffered cramps in channel. (International)

Cards of Thanks

We desire to express our sincere thanks and appreciation to all our friends, neighbors and relatives who were so kind to us during the illness and following the death of our beloved husband, son and father, Elwood E. Lease. We especially wish to thank Rev. Harold Allen and Rev. E. W. Culp, those who sent floral tributes, those who donated the use of their cars for the funeral and the pallbearers. To all others who in any manner rendered assistance, we are indeed grateful.

Tri-Towns Arranging New Yule Street Decorations

PIEDMONT—Officials of Westernport, Luke and Piedmont are making plans for more attractive street decorations during the holiday season, as well as for community Christmas trees and the usual strands of lights in the business sections.

In Luke the Christmas tree will be erected on the memorial lot on Pratt Street, opposite the Devon Club.

This year the West Virginia Pulp and Paper Company will not erect a tree in the mill yard as the site at the entrance to the mill where the tree has been erected in past years is occupied by a tent which is being used for the storage of parts of Number 5 machine.

Luke officials have arranged for stringing colored lights along Pratt Street and have ordered plastic Christmas decorations to supplement the lights.

Nine plastic lighted circular ornaments have been ordered by the Mayor and Commissioners of Westernport. These will be suspended over the street from brackets placed on the poles. They will replace the usual strings of colored lights.

Plans for the placing of colored lights across Ashfield and intersecting streets and the erection of a Christmas tree on Parking Lot 1 at the corner of Ashfield and Third Streets were made at the regular meeting of the Piedmont council.

The replacing of the usual Christmas street lights with lighted plastic ornaments, as is being planned for Westernport, was not considered advisable this year as the city does not have funds available for the purchase of enough ornaments to make a good showing.

Christmas trees for Piedmont and Westernport are being donated by William Mayle. They will be hauled from his property on Westernport hill and erected by workmen of the two towns.

The Westernport tree will be placed as usual on the Western Maryland Railway lot at the intersection of Main and Church Streets.

Stay Of Execution Sought For Kier

FREDERICK, Nov. 27 (AP)—A petition for an indefinite stay of execution for Carl Daniel Kier has been filed in Frederick County Circuit Court.

The 23-year-old Negro has twice been convicted of slaying Mrs. John H. Bopst Jr. in her fashionable Baltimore County home in 1956. After the Court of Appeals upset the Baltimore County Circuit Court decision, Kier was tried again here and convicted.

Kier's court-appointed attorneys said the stay of execution was asked because an appeal of the second conviction has been filed with the Court of Appeals.

WIFE PRESERVER

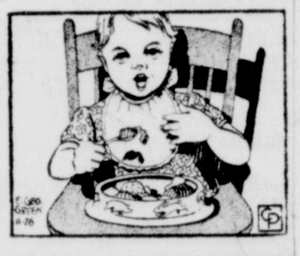
As soon as Thanksgiving dinner is over, take care of the turkey that is left. Remove any stuffing from the bird and cover both stuffing and bird lightly and refrigerate at once. Cool broth and gravy quickly and refrigerate it, too. Meal-sized portions of meat can be frozen; if packaged carefully, they should keep for a month.

Your car engine can suffer from shock if the ignition is turned off immedately after a long run. Let it idle for a few minutes after you stop, to let it cool off more gradually and more safely.

The Duke of Wellington and Napoleon are said never to have met personally although they once were within a quarter of a mile of each other during the battle of Waterloo.

The art of tempering glass was discovered during the reign of Roman Emperor Tiberius.

WIFE PRESERVER



If you have difficulty encouraging a young child to eat, it may be because his food is too much alike in texture and appearance. As soon as a baby's system is able to take more than bland foods, present him with a meal that has variety; he'll appreciate it as much as you would.

Fire Danger In Woodlands Is Increasing

District Forester Here Warns Hunters

Fire weather is mounting, Wilsaid yesterday, and warned huntliam H. Johnson, district forester ers in the woods to be careful until the situation is relieved.

The forester said yesterday that dry weather and increasing winds have caused the fire danger in the state's woodlands to increase rapidly in the past few weeks.

He said the forestry department is hoping for rain or snow to ease the tension before the deer season begins in Allegany County on December 2.

Mr. Johnson also pointed out it is illegal for anyone to build a fire in the woods without obtaining the property owner's permission.

Personsp lanning to build fires during the hunting season in state forests must get written permission from the Department of Forests and Parks. Mr. Johnson added that if the present weather conditions continue, however, this permission will not be granted.

Two fires this month have burned a total of 10 acres of state land, thef orester said. On November 12 a fire of unknown origin burned about six acres on Wagner's ridge just west of Oldtown.

On November 22 four more acres were burned on Town Creek on the Vernon Thomas farm off Jacobs road. This fire, foresters believe, was set by coon hunters during the night.

TB Christmas Seal Sales Reach $7,944

An initial report of $7,944.45 for the annual sale of Christmas Seals by the Allegany-Garrett County Tuberculosis Association was announced yesterday.

Miss Jean Reinhard, executive secretary of the association, said yesterday's figure represents a decrease over the sale of seals for the same period last year.

Of the total amount received to date, Miss Reinhard said, $6,369.39 was made by residents of Allegany County, and $1,020.07 was sent in from Garrett County. The contributions from Garrett County represents an increase over reports for the comparable period last year.

Miss Reinhard said 27,272 letters were mailed out November 7 and of this number 5,015 have been mailed back to the association's headquarters in the County Building on Union Street.

Miss Reinhard also added the association is not affiliated with the County United Fund and must depend on the annual sale of Christmas Seals to raise funds for its work. No money may be accepted which was raised by the County United Fund campaign conducted here recently.

Officials of the association said they are hoping that the contributions will increase during the next few weeks and that last year's mark of $20,148.76 will either be equalled or surpassed.

Investigator On Way Here To Check Story Of Murder

Elmer Bisbing, 33, of this city, who Tuesday confessed to the murder of a Cambridge, Mass., girl in 1946, may be charged with providing false information to police officers if his story is a hoax.

An investigator from Massachusetts is expected to arrive here tomorrow morning to check the conflicting stories Bisbing confessed and denied to police officers Tuesday.

The local welder, who is being held in Allegany County Jail, informed authorities Tuesday that he participated in the murder of Miss Ruth Ann McGuirk, 25, along a lonely road near Amesbury, Mass. Later in the day he denied taking part in the murder.

Rec Club Dance Is Replaced

The Rec Club will not hold its usual Friday night dance this week, Lawrence R. Dehn, program secretary of Central YMCA, said yesterday.

Instead a victory dance is scheduled tonight at the YMCA following today's Thanksgiving Day football game between Fort Hill and Allegany at Fort Hill stadium.

The victory dance will be a dress affair and the YMCA gym and Rec Club rooms will be decorated, Mr. Dehn added.

The next regular dance by the group will be held Friday, December 6.

Students Of Rival High Schools Prepare For Traditional 'Turkey Day' Game

Beverly Taylor and Diana Fuller add finishing touches to the Allegany High School football float which will be paraded at halftime in today's football game with Fort Hill. Cheerleaders took charge of the float decoration.

Fort Hill High School's "Frosty the Snowman" gets some cosmetic attention from Ronnie Michael, Fred Wakeman and James Hutzell. "Frosty" was built for today's game by these three boys, and Harvey May and Donald Middleton.

Why Thanksgiving Date Varies - - But Not Much

By ALBERT D. DARBY
News Staff Writer

Why was Thanksgiving Day observed on November 22 last year and on November 28, six days later, this year?

That question has been asked frequently lately by persons who either have forgotten or never knew Congress took action in 1941 by specifying that after that year Thanksgiving Day would be observed on the fourth Thursday in November, which is not necessarily the last Thursday in the month.

The first proclamation setting aside the last Thursday in November "as a day of thanksgiving and praise to our beneficent Father" was issued by President Abraham Lincoln in 1863. He issued a similar proclamation the following year.

Each year thereafter for 75 years, the President of the United States formally proclaimed that Thanksgiving Day should be celebrated on the last Thursday of November. The various state governors also called on their people to give thanks.

Then, in 1939, President Franklin D. Roosevelt proclaimed Thanksgiving Day to be celebrated one week earlier. His purpose was to help business by making the shopping period between Thanksgiving and Christmas longer. Some governors refused to follow his example and their states celebrated the traditional day.

Not A Strike-Out

When Congress took action in 1941 to clarify the date for Thanksgiving, it did not completely rebuff President Roosevelt's idea, as so many persons seem to think. None other than Arthur "Bugs" Baer, whose syndicated column appears on the editorial page of this paper each day, wrote last Saturday that "Franklin D's Thanksgiving is up at the Cooperstown Hall of Baseball Fame in the strike-out department."

By specifying the fourth rather than the last Thursday for the observance of Thanksgiving, Congress had compromised and in so doing had accepted two of the seven days President Roosevelt had advocated for Thanksgiving.

Before 1939, Thanksgiving was observed sometime between November 24 and November 30, whichever happened to be the last Thursday in November. President Roosevelt advocated the dates between November 17 and 23, inclusive, for the special day.

Congress' act eliminated November 29 and November 30 from consideration for Thanksgiving as either would be the fifth Thursday when it fell on that day of the week. As a result, Thanksgiving is now observed sometime between November 22 (as it was last year when the fifth Thursday was November 29) and November 28, as it is being observed today. Congress went two-ninths of the way with FDR.

Since this Congressional act of 1941, there have been five occasions when either November 29 or November 30 was the final Thursday but not observed as Thanksgiving. In 1944 it was November 30; in 1945, November 29; in 1950, November 30; in 1951, November 29, and again in 1956, November 29.

Virginia Was First

Incidentally, the first Thanksgiving service in America was not in Massachusetts as is generally accepted but in Virginia.

Bond Is Posted In Liquor Sale

The proprietors of the G&W Restaurant, 43 North Liberty, yesterday afternoon posted $500 bond in Trial Magistrate Court to await action of the Circuit Court on a charge of selling alcoholic beverages to a minor.

Irma Sittig and Howard Sittig, operators of the North Liberty establishment, were given a preliminary hearing yesterday afternoon before Magistrate Donald W. Mason and a jury trial was prayed by Assistant State's Attorney James S. Getty.

Warrants for the arrest of the proprietors were obtained Tuesday by Mr. Getty after four youths who were tried Tuesday for disturbing the peace admitted purchasing alcoholic beverages at the G&W Restaurant Monday night.

The youths, who are listed as being between the ages of 19 and 24, are Donald Custer, Charles Cathell and Elwood Faulkner, all of Cresaptown, and Eugene Hedrick, Union Grove, Frostburg. City Police list Cathell's age as 19.

The four are being held in City Jail on $200 bond to await sentencing Friday by Magistrate J. Milton Dick.

All four pleaded guilty to disturbing the peace early Tuesday morning on Pennsylvania Avenue. The group was arrested by Officer Robert Gilpin, who was off duty at the time, and Officers Joseph Harvey and Clarence Valentine.

Two Officials Will Receive Oath Of Office

Wilson, who will succeed Mr. Lemmert as a county commissioner. Mr. Wilson formerly served six years as president of the Allegany County Board of Election Supervisors.

County Commissioner James Orr said that the three commissioners, including C. N. Wilkinson, will meet in executive session at 10 a. m. Tuesday to name a successor to Mr. Lemmert as president.

Disappearing Prisoner Is Recaptured

A local man, missing for several weeks from the Allegany County Jail where he walked away from a work detail, was arrested yesterday by City Police on a drunk charge.

James W. Fadley, booked as John James Fadley at the county lockup, of 205 Mary Street, was picked up on the city charge and sentenced to 10 days in the city jail. Magistrate Donald W. Mason handed down the 10-day term after Detective George Furstenberg and Officer Charles Manges booked Fadley yesterday morning.

Police said Fadley commented while being taken to his cell he still had five months to do "on the hill" at the county jail.

Fadley originally was handed a six months sentence for a second offense on drunken driving by Magistrate J. Milton Dick in Trial Magistrates Court on May 21.

Magistrate Dick also imposed 115 additional days in lieu of fines of $225 on three motor violations.

Fadley had served almost six months of his time when he walked away from the county jail work detail, officials there said. He will be taken back to the county lockup after finishing his present stint in the city jail.

Tablet Painter Eludes Police

City police said last night that Roger Lee Cook, 23, who was sentenced to six months to the Allegany County Jail for defacing property, is missing from a work detail at the LaVale barracks of the Maryland State Police.

Cook had been sent there from the county jail as a trustee, they said.

He was sentenced on September 10 by Magistrate J. Milton Dick in Trial Magistrates Court for malicious destruction of property after admitting he defaced the Ten Commandments tablet on the Court House lawn.

1907 Thanksgiving Saw Opening Of Maryland

By F. ALLAN WEATHERHOLT
News Staff Writer

Fifty years ago this week, the Thanksgiving holiday season in Cumberland was highlighted by a colorful event, the opening of the Maryland Theatre.

Newspapers of that day referred to the opening of the new playhouse on North Mechanic Street here as a "memorable occasion" and a "stupendous step in the cultural life of the community."

The theatre actually was formally opened one week before Thanksgiving Day, with a special performance of "The Ginger Bread Man," a popular play of its day. The date was November 21 and local papers devoted several columns to covering the event.

The Maryland Theatre was described as an $80,000 project, designed to bring the best in entertainment to a growing city. For several decades, the best in stage entertainment, vaudeville and opera played there, until motion pictures brought the usual changes.

The manager of the new playhouse when it opened was Elmer R. Rutter, who came here from Reading, Pa., where he had held a similar position.

Play Was Success

The night of the grand opening was a gay affair, with many of the prominent people of the area attending. Charles E. Cope's Twelve-Man Orchestra furnished music.

"The Ginger Bread Man" featured such theatre names of the day as Charles Quinn in the title role; Charles E. Gallagher, Robert W. Packar, Della Nevin, "Little Rose" Murray and many others.

Following the opening performance, the theatre management announced that it was gratified with the acceptance of the theatre and the play, and that gross receipts had been $1,800 for the opening night.

The theatre continued to present plays and road shows almost every night.

"The Gingerbread Man" was followed by a "popular priced play" called "The Old Clothes Man," which was followed by "Lew Dockstader and His Famous 60 Minstrel Men."

On Thanksgiving Day, the first holiday presentation at the play

MDAA Canister Drive Begins

The annual canister drive of the Allegany-Garrett Chapter of the Muscular Dystrophy Association is under way and plans call for having 8,000 canisters out by the end of the week.

Fire Chief Virgil A. Parker, who heads the canister drive with Commissioner William V. Keegan, said no definite goal has been set but that the chapter hopes to raise at least $3,000 from canister collections in Cumberland.

The canisters are being delivered by fire fighters to business establishments in Allegany and Garrett counties.

Albert A. Doub, chapter president, said more than 200,000 children and adults in America are afflicted with the dread disease which results in the gradual wastaway of the muscles of the body.

No cure for muscular dystrophy has been found and, unlike polio, it is always fatal, Mr. Doub said.

It is the hope of the Muscular Dystrophy Associations of America, he said, that with the aid of contributions to the canister drive, the cause and cure of the disease may soon be found.

Mr. Doub further pointed out that the March of Dimes brought the Salk vaccine which is eliminating the scourge of polio and that it is hoped muscular dystrophy may soon be conquered in a similar manner.

Because a substantial portion of the funds needed is used for medical research, Dr. Doub said, it has been the MDAA policy not to join in federated appeals and consequently the local chapter has been unable to obtain permission to join the County-United Fund.

Judge Denies Habeas Writ To Prisoner

For the second time in a little more than a month, an inmate of the Maryland House of Correction has been denied a writ of habeas corpus by Chief Judge George Henderson in Allegany County Circuit Court.

The inmate is identified as James McCoy alias Carl Brooks.

Judge Henderson states that his original application was denied by a written opinion and order filed October 21 of this year.

This second or amended application is a further argument that the court's decision was wrong because petitioner was entitled, according to his theory, to be released as of November 3.

The petitioner admits that he was sentenced on November 9, 1954, as James McCoy, to serve three years in the House of Correction, that he escaped and later was sentenced for the escape to serve six months "to begin at the expiration of sentence then being served. These two sentences would expire May 9, 1958.

McCoy or Brooks alleges that he is entitled to seven months off that sentence by law and 50 days industrial good time by law. He further alleges that even if there be deducted from this credit the 66 days during which he was free after his escape and 10 days for violation of rules, he still should be credited at least six months and four days so that he should have been released November 3.

Judge Henderson explains that to the Board of Correction is confided the management of the House of Correction. On it is imposed the duty of administering, under its own rules and regulations, the internal discipline of the House of Correction.

The judge states that it is apparent that this application shows no good cause for the issuance of the writ of habeas corpus.

"If petitioner, in good faith, thinks he has been unjustly dealt with he can ask the board to investigate his case. However, it may be remarked in passing that one, already serving a three year sentence, who escapes and while at large, is convicted (under an alias) of two other offenses, may have difficulty in proving a right to credit for good conduct."

Tiny Mayflower II Will Give Americans Enduring Symbol Of First Thanksgiving

By C. WESLEY BLACKBURN
News Staff Writer

The Mayflower II, sturdy replica of the famous vessel which sailed the Pilgrims to America in 1620, may replace the turkey as a symbol of Thanksgiving for millions of Americans this year.

Many thousands of Americans, young and old, have set foot on the tiny square-rigged barque which left Plymouth, England, on April 20 and arrived in Plymouth, Mass., on June 13 after being sailed across the Atlantic Ocean in the same manner as the original Mayflower.

The 90-foot sailing vessel was built by British craftsmen, chiefly of Devon oakshaped with tools used by shipbuilders three centuries ago.

North America had a part in the construction of Mayflower II.

The three-masted vessel was designed by William A. Baker, of Hingham, Mass., who worked with fragmentary information about the original Mayflower and other 17th Century ships.

Just as utility firms must, the builders depended upon Canada to furnish the tall tree needed for the main mast.

An Australian, Alan Villiers, commanded the crew which sailed the Mayflower II to the United States.

The gallant little vessel crossed the Atlantic Ocean with the aid of 17th Century instruments which were backed up by unneeded modern navigation aids.

When you see it you may wonder, as I did, why the Pilgrim fathers waited almost a year to declare their Thanksgiving holiday.

They were, of course, too busy struggling for existence when they landed and during that first bitter winter along the Atlantic Coast, to take time out for more than a few brief prayers of Thanksgiving for the safe voyage.

When you see the Mayflower II you will probably wonder if some of the Americans who boast their forefathers came over on the Mayflower are not indulging in wishful thinking.

It could not have been a very pleasant voyage the Pilgrims made, for all told, the Mayflower II is just about as large as some of the sprawling homes which are dotting suburban areas around Cumberland, as it measures roughly 90 by 25 by 12 feet.

The main deck, which served as the living quarters for the Puritans during the voyage, is no larger than many living-dining room combinations in modern homes.

Cooking was a bi' difficult on both voyages, as all fires for cooking had to be built on sand boxes to minimize the danger of fire.

Hammocks were not in use when the Pilgrims made their voyage, so the more than 100 passengers slept on the floor of the main deck, which also housed some of the ship's gear.

Below them were the holds

Showalter Held For Grand Jury In Wife's Death

William Showalter, 40, of near Clearville, Pa., is being held without bond on a murder charge after a preliminary hearing yesterday in Bedford Borough before Justice of the Peace H. Cyril Bingham.

Showalter was charged with the slaying of his wife, Mrs. Hilda Showalter, 35 who was stabbed to death at the couple's home on November 14.

Pennsylvania State Police said Mrs. Showalter died after being stabbed in the heart. Her husband then stabbed himself with a knife, they said.

Following the stabbings, the man burned down the house.

Showalter, who was hospitalized until last Saturday, is being held in Bedford County Jail until the January term of court there.

New Trial Set In Land Case

A new trial in a condemnation suit for property along U. S. Route 220 near Rawlings will be held at 10 a. m. Friday, Associate Judge Morgan C. Harris said yesterday.

The State Roads Commission filed a condemnation petition against William F. Fitzpatrick and Lelia B. Fitzpatrick, his wife, for the property located in the seventh election district of Allegany County. The SRC deposited a check for $2,250 with the clerk in Allegany County Circuit Court for the property which is being sought for construction of U. S. Route 220 between Rawlings and McCoole.

On November 8 a jury trial was held and a verdict of $6,950 was returned for the defendants, giving the SRC the right to condemn the property at that figure.

Attorneys for the SRC filed a petition for a new trial on November 12 which was granted.

Representing the SRC are Joseph D. Buscher, special assistant attorney general for Maryland, William C. Walsh and Robert Rothenhoefer. Attorneys for the defendants are W. Earle Cobey and William R. Carscaden.

ALL-SEEING EYE: Flying cameraman Aubrey Patterson Jr. heads for the darkroom with his big camera after shooting the pictures necessary for plotting a contour map.

New Science Helps State's Expanding Roads Program

By CHARLES L. STAFFORD

BALTIMORE (AP)—Like a hound following a hot trail, the light airplane hewed to a straight line 6,000 feet above the wintery countryside.

In the rear seat, Aubrey Patterson Jr. methodically triggered an aerial camera.

This flight shortly after noon one day last winter was civil engineering on the wing. The photography was step one in the job of planning a new highway by air.

With increasing frequency these flights are being made throughout the United States.

One Maryland road builder says the huge scope of multi-billion-dollar federal highway program is dictating wider and wider use of this relatively new science called photogrammetry.

Simply stated, one phase of photogrammetry is the transformation of aerial photographs into accurate contour maps.

Without such maps a highway planner might run his road into a mountain or over a cliff. To know the lay of the land, he must have contour lines on his map.

Patterson's flight was the beginning of a project which proved to the satisfaction of the Maryland State Roads Commission that a new highway can be planned in its entirety by photogrammetry.

The flight was made at 6,000 feet to give a plotting scale of one inch to 200 feet. Patterson fired his camera ever 3,600 feet—three pictures every two miles. The pictures were taken at a slight angle.

Back in the firm's laboratory at Harbor Field, the 200-foot roll of film was developed and the prints laid out in sequence on a drawing table. Each picture lapped over the next, like a deck of cards spread in a straight line.

Then a team of field men went into the area on foot. They picked out control points — a house here, a railroad signal there — and measured their exact location and elevation.

Back in the laboratory, these known locations were plotted on a five-foot square skeleton grid map spread on the work table of a weird looking machine called a Kelsh plotter.

The portions of two aerial photographs which overlapped were projected onto the plotting table from above, one from a projector with a red lamp and the other from a projector using a bluish bulb.

The plotter blended together two slightly different views of the same terrain features.

The map-maker put on glasses with red and blue lenses, just like the plastic glasses given patrons of the early 3D movies. These permitted him to see the blended picture of the terrain in depth.

He set the drawing arm of the plotter for the elevation of one of the known points and, beginning at that point, moved the attached pen point along the exact ground surface of the stereoscopic image. He drew the first contour line.

He raised the elevation two feet and began drawing the next line. This was done again and again until the contour map was finished.

Other flights were made—some as low as 1,500 feet and others up to 15,000 — and other maps drawn. These included cross-section maps for estimating the amount of excavation and fill needed to build the road. This is the principal item considered by the contractor bidding on the project.

A photographic geologist — a new breed of scientist — studied the aerial photographs and test borings and produced a geologic report on the type of soil beneath the road's route.

Thus the road was planned.

Aerial photography and photogrammetry did the work which formerly would have been assigned many field teams of hard to find civil engineers. And they did it with accuracy in only one-third the time which would have been required by ground crews. Only a fraction of the test borings usually made were necessary to prepare the geologic report.

5½ Million Vehicles Used W.Va. Turnpike

CHARLESTON, W. Va. — (AP) — More than 5½ million cars and trucks have traveled the West Virginia Turnpike since the Charleston-Princeton toll road was opened along its entire 88 miles three years ago.

The 36-mile stretch between Princeton and Beckley was opened Aug. 29, 1954, and the remaining Beckley-Charleston segment was thrown open on Nov. 8 that year.

Kremlin Fears Pasternak's Epic Novel, Suppresses It

NEW YORK—(AP)—Boris Pasternak's epic Soviet novel "Dr. Zhivago" concludes with a declaration that the presentiment of freedom is in the air in postwar Russia.

Kremlin suppression of this 700-page book at home and efforts to suppress it abroad show vividly, however, that freedom in Russia remains only a presentiment. "Dr. Zhivago" was published recently in Italian translation in Milan by a Communist publisher who received the manuscript from Pasternak in Moscow in 1956 and refused to yield to Soviet efforts to dissuade him from issuing the book. It will be published in other translations in the United States, Britain, France and Sweden early next year.

The hero, Yuri Andreyevich Zhivago, is a physician from a wealthy Moscow family and also a writer. The novel tells through literary fragments he left behind the tragedy of Russia through wars and revolutions in the first three decades of this century. Pasternak, long in disfavor with Stalin, worked 10 years on it.

The book is not anti-Communist, but the hero delivers passages ridiculing Marxism-Leninism.

What the Kremlin fears in the novel is its protest against suppression of freedom and brutality to human beings.

The novel takes place in different regions but particularly in Moscow and the Urals city of Yuratin. It tells of Zhivago and numerous persons from various social strata. Among them are Zhivago's three wives including a girl named Lara, another central figure.

Zhivago participated in World War I. Revolution left him near starvation so he fled to Yuratin and from there was sent to rural exile. Then he was drafted by Communist forces in the civil war. He returned to Yuratin—and Lara. But she left him. He went to Moscow. There his half-brother, a politically influential man, and two professor friends helped him get some works published. He died at the end of the 1920s after an accident and heart attack. A postscript brings the book down to the end of World War II.

Said Zhivago to a Communist: "Men of your way of life abound in proverbs, but you have forgotten the most important one, which is that one does not love through force, and you have adopted the habit of liberating and making happy precisely those who don't want it."

ALL-SEEING EYE: Flying cameraman Aubrey Patterson Jr. heads for the darkroom with his big camera after shooting the pictures necessary for plotting a contour map.

New Science Helps State's Expanding Roads Program

By CHARLES L. STAFFORD

BALTIMORE (AP)—Like a hound following a hot trail, the light airplane hewed to a straight line 6,000 feet above the wintery countryside.

In the rear seat, Aubrey Patterson Jr. methodically triggered an aerial camera.

This flight shortly after noon one day last winter was civil engineering on the wing. The photography was step one in the job of planning a new highway by air.

With increasing frequency these flights are being made throughout the United States.

One Maryland road builder says the huge scope of multi-billion-dollar federal highway program is dictating wider and wider use of this relatively new science called photogrammetry.

Simply stated, one phase of photogrammetry is the transformation of aerial photographs into accurate contour maps.

Without such maps a highway planner might run his road into a mountain or over a cliff. To know the lay of the land, he must have contour lines on his map.

Patterson's flight was the beginning of a project which proved to the satisfaction of the Maryland State Roads Commission that a new highway can be planned in its entirety by photogrammetry.

The flight was made at 6,000 feet to give a plotting scale of one inch to 200 feet. Patterson fired his camera ever 3,600 feet—three pictures every two miles. The pictures were taken at a slight angle.

Back in the firm's laboratory at Harbor Field, the 200-foot roll of film was developed and the prints laid out in sequence on a drawing table. Each picture lapped over the next, like a deck of cards spread in a straight line.

Then a team of field men went into the area on foot. They picked out control points — a house here, a railroad signal there — and measured their exact location and elevation.

Back in the laboratory, these known locations were plotted on a five-foot square skeleton grid map spread on the work table of a weird looking machine called a Kelsh plotter.

The portions of two aerial photographs which overlapped were projected onto the plotting table from above, one from a projector with a red lamp and the other from a projector using a bluish bulb.

The plotter blended together two slightly different views of the same terrain features.

The map-maker put on glasses with red and blue lenses, just like the plastic glasses given patrons of the early 3D movies. These permitted him to see the blended picture of the terrain in depth.

He set the drawing arm of the plotter for the elevation of one of the known points and, beginning at that point, moved the attached pen point along the exact ground surface of the stereoscopic image. He drew the first contour line.

He raised the elevation two feet and began drawing the next line. This was done again and again until the contour map was finished.

Other flights were made—some as low as 1,500 feet and others up to 15,000 — and other maps drawn. These included cross-section maps for estimating the amount of excavation and fill needed to build the road. This is the principal item considered by the contractor bidding on the project.

A photographic geologist — a new breed of scientist — studied the aerial photographs and test borings and produced a geologic report on the type of soil beneath the road's route.

Thus the road was planned.

Aerial photography and photogrammetry did the work which formerly would have been assigned many field teams of hard to find civil engineers. And they did it with accuracy in only one-third the time which would have been required by ground crews. Only a fraction of the test borings usually made were necessary to prepare the geologic report.

Sugar For Formosa

TAIPEI, Formosa—(AP)—The Industrial Development Commission has approved an eight-million dollar program to start modernizing and expanding facilities of the state-owned Taiwan Sugar Corp. Kremlin Fears Pasternak's Epic Novel, Suppresses It

NEW YORK—(AP)—Boris Pasternak's epic Soviet novel "Dr. Zhivago" concludes with a declaration that the presentiment of freedom is in the air in postwar Russia.

Kremlin suppression of this 700-page book at home and efforts to suppress it abroad show vividly, however, that freedom in Russia remains only a presentiment. "Dr. Zhivago" was published recently in Italian translation in Milan by a Communist publisher who received the manuscript from Pasternak in Moscow in 1956 and refused to yield to Soviet efforts to dissuade him from issuing the book. It will be published in other translations in the United States, Britain, France and Sweden early next year.

The hero, Yuri Andreyevich Zhivago, is a physician from a wealthy Moscow family and also a writer. The novel tells through literary fragments he left behind the tragedy of Russia through wars and revolutions in the first three decades of this century. Pasternak, long in disfavor with Stalin, worked 10 years on it.

The book is not anti-Communist, but the hero delivers passages ridiculing Marxism-Leninism.

What the Kremlin fears in the novel is its protest against suppression of freedom and brutality to human beings.

The novel takes place in different regions but particularly in Moscow and the Urals city of Yuratin. It tells of Zhivago and numerous persons from various social strata. Among them are Zhivago's three wives including a girl named Lara, another central figure.

Zhivago participated in World War I. Revolution left him near starvation so he fled to Yuratin and from there was sent to rural exile. Then he was drafted by Communist forces in the civil war. He returned to Yuratin—and Lara. But she left him. He went to Moscow. There his half-brother, a politically influential man, and two professor friends helped him get some works published. He died at the end of the 1920s after an accident and heart attack. A postscript brings the book down to the end of World War II.

Said Zhivago to a Communist: "Men of your way of life abound in proverbs, but you have forgotten the most important one, which is that one does not love through force, and you have adopted the habit of liberating and making happy precisely those who don't want it."

"Masters Of Deceit"

NEW YORK—(AP)—FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover has completed a book entitled "Masters of Deceit," the story of communism in America and how to fight it. It will be published by Henry Holt and Co. in 1958.

5½ Million Vehicles Used W.Va. Turnpike

CHARLESTON, W. Va. — (AP) — More than 5½ million cars and trucks have traveled the West Virginia Turnpike since the Charleston-Princeton toll road was opened along its entire 88 miles three years ago.

The 36-mile stretch between Princeton and Beckley was opened Aug. 29, 1954, and the remaining Beckley-Charleston segment was thrown open on Nov. 8 that year.

BLIND TRIPLETS DIG IN — While their father, Frank, and mother, Marie, give instructions, the four-year-old blind Petraglia triplets, Stephen, Gail and Donna, wield toy shovels as they break ground for their new home in the Bronx, New York. The land, building materials and construction have been donated by businessmen and labor leaders. The children were born sightless.

X15 To Explore Flight Conditions 200,000 Feet Up

WASHINGTON — (AP) — A government research engineer reports the Air Force's secret research plane, the X15, will explore flight conditions up to 200,000 feet altitude and at speeds up to 4,700 miles an hour.

Hubert M. Drake also reported that in the more distant future "boost glide" planes now on the drawing boards may operate at speeds up to 18,000 miles an hour. Such planes are sent to great heights, where their motors cut off, and they glide back to earth without power.

Drake, stationed at the National Advisory Committee for Aeronautics for high speed flight station at Edwards, Calif., did not give details of either development. He mentioned them in showing charts of how high and fast planes can be expected to fly in the future.

Drake spoke before the North Atlantic Treaty Organization's advisory group for aeronautical research and development. Another speaker was Capt. Ivan C. Kincheloe, who made the highest airplane flight in history.

He piloted the Bell X2 rocket-powered research plane to an altitude of about 126,000 feet Sept. 7, 1956. The veteran pilot gave a detailed account of his 16 minute, 32 second record flight.

Kincheloe described a "short interlude of personal consternation" he went through when the X2's rocket engine died of fuel exhaustion even though the fuel gauge indicated that he still had 75 per cent of his propellant load on board.

Drake said that at extreme altitudes and speeds, indications on airplane instruments are "very leading" and greatly aggravate the difficulty of the research pilot's task.

He said studies indicate that the problems of low dynamic pressure will be very critical on the X15 and later aircraft and may lead to errors of up to 50,000 feet in instrument measurement of altitude.

Curbs On Capital Police Set Stage For Crime Rise

By ED CREAGH

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Your nation's capital may be turning into one of the safest places in the nation to commit a crime.

The police are inclined to think so, anyway. Some members of Congress agree. And the hoodlum element has taken a new lease on life, to judge from an upsurge of gambling and a spreading of crimes of violence outward from slum areas.

Here are a few signs of the times in the streets radiating from the capitol:

1. Mark F. Ethridge, publisher of the Louisville Courier Journal and the Louisville Times, was bowled over by two men who tried to snatch his wife's purse. The incident was one of a number which have occurred recently in quiet, sedate parts of town.

2. A 20-year-old man, Andrew Mallory, who admitted raping a woman twice his age, went scot-free. He was convicted of the crime but the U. S. Supreme Court held his confession couldn't be used against him because he hadn't been charged formally with the offense soon enough after arrest.

3. Another youth beat a 3-to-10 year sentence for housebreaking. The U. S. Court of Appeals freed him under a new and widely disputed interpretation of what "insanity" means. As most other courts interpret the word, he'd have gone to prison.

These incidents do not mean Washington is in the grip of a crime wave, although the current rate of serious offenses is up 2.8 per cent over a year ago. But law enforcement officers are deeply concerned—to the point where one has decided to turn in his badge.

Dep. Police Chief Clarence H. Lutz plans to retire soon because, he says, as head of the morals division he can't cope with gambling which has mushroomed to a million-dollar-a-day turnover.

Lutz blames legal restrictions on the police for most of his difficulties. And the capital's chief prosecutor, U. S. Atty. Oliver Gasch, agrees with him that too often the cops' hands are tied by recent court rulings.

Gasch says it was "the blackest day of my life" when the Supreme Court handed down the Mallory decision. This 1957 ruling holds that 1. a confession can't be used against a suspect when there has been undue delay in arraigning him, and 2. a warrant can't be issued on mere suspicion but only if there is "probable cause."

Local courts seem to have interpreted these curbs more strictly than most courts elsewhere. But even here there is considerable confusion among judges and lawyers. What is "undue delay? How "probable" a cause must the police show in order to get a warrant?

"Utterly confused" is the Washington Star's description of this whole picture. At least two members of Congress — Sen. Butler (R-Md) and Rep. Keating (R-NY) — have introduced legislation aimed at straightening it out.

Similar controversy has arisen from the U.S. Court of Appeals ruling on an insanity plea. Previously, the generally accepted legal rule was that a defendant is insane only if he did not know right from wrong or if, in committing a crime, he was moved by an irresistible impulse. The Washington Star broadened this by saying no person can be convicted if he is suffering from a mental disease or defect.

High Court Schedules Potomac River Case

WASHINGTON — (AP) — The Supreme Court has alloted two hours of argument on Dec. 9 on whether Virginia should be allowed to file suit against Maryland in a Potomac River dispute.

Virginia seeks to contest Maryland's action abrogating the Potomac River Company of 1785 under which Virginians were granted equal fishing rights with Marylanders in the river. Maryland has jurisdiction over the Potomac to the low-water line on the Virginia shore.

Britain's Hereditary House Of Lords Soon May Lose Some Of Its Medieval Crust

By TOM CHILTREE

LONDON—(AP)—If all goes well, the Conservative government will scrape some of the medieval crust off the hereditary House of Lords.

But will all go well? Already a government bill, introduced last week, has produced disunity in the opposition Labor party. And there are even uneasy stirrings among the Conservatives.

Prime Minister Macmillan's proposals are modest—admit a few peeresses to this male stronghold and create peers whose titles last only a lifetime.

The crux of the problem is how to give a 20th century tailoring job to a political institution that is almost unchanged in outward form since the reign of King John in the 13th century.

Through the centuries, the power of the Lords has seeped away. But the barons, earls, dukes and other peers have kept the chamber alive in an age when democratic sister nations elect their parliaments, national assemblies and congresses by popular vote.

Today the House of Lords can do some tinkering with legislation passed by the House of Commons. It can delay, but it cannot kill the acts of Commons.

The government bill has been read formally for the first time in the House of Lords. It must be passed on twice more by the Lords—no date has been set—before being sent to Commons.

Some Conservatives regret the subject has been revived. They fear one change in the makeup of the chamber will lead to later, more sweeping revisions.

To the Labor party, the Prime Minister's proposals look suspiciously like a trap. Most Laborites believe the House of Lords will be scrapped or allowed to wither away in the Socialist paradise they hope to create.

A Labor party spokesman explained Laborites will have a hard time justifying a vote against a government measure providing for "a breach in the heriditary principle and the removal of the sex disqualification."

Labor expects to win the next election and be back in power in the popularly-elected House of Commons by 1960. Labor has a committee under Dep. Leader Jim Griffiths working on a plan to abolish the hereditary principle in the House of Lords. Members would be appointed at the beginning of each newly elected House of Commons.

Places in the Lords would be given to each political party in proportion to the number of seats it held in the House of Commons. The outgoing House of Commons and the House of Lords would be dissolved together.
